Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Area Response Is Calm

strated at the commuter stop as part of the nationwide moratorium against the Vietnam war. The local residents responded sometimes gruffly, sometimes sympathetically, but always with surprise. (photo by Bob Finch)

Faces of Death Ask for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground. Another man slammed a train window down in the face of a protester shouting to him from below.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splashed with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war..."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacifist Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think about war," he said, "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

"Stop the war," the students said. "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

Asks Keith Ouster

by TOM JACHIMIEC

The resignation of Trustee Eugene Keith was called for Tuesday by Elk Grove Village Trustee Charles Zetek.

Zetek, disturbed at Keith's reason for continuing as a trustee, sharply criticized the trustee for his performance in recent months.

Keith, in turn, defended his actions by saying he has served the village well.

The argument in which Zetek called for Keith's resignation was touched off in part by Trustee Ronald Chernick, who asked Keith why he did not resign after publicly announcing he would do so last spring.

"HOW COME WE haven't heard from you?" asked Chernick.

Keith said, "I was asked by many people including other defeated candidates, to stay on the board as a base to operate from in future campaigns to defeat other members of the board."

Chernick responded: "We welcome you."

Zetek asked Keith if that was his "only purpose." He questioned if Keith had any dedication to the governmental body and the community.

Keith said that of course he did and went on to clarify that he had served well and will do so in the future.

ZETEK MEANWHILE attacked Keith's statement in which he said his reason for staying on the board was to "serve as a base to operate from in future elections."

Zetek said Keith was supposed to have resigned some months ago, attends few village meetings, objects to the municipal building "and then, has the gall and lack of wisdom to say he is on the board to serve as a base for future elections.

"If you have no other purpose, it's a gosh darn shame," Zetek said, adding that if that is Keith's only purpose, he ought to resign.

Keith did not pursue the discussion further as Trustee Tom Ullmann asked the board to continue with the meeting.

ULLMANN BEGAN BY opposing a $120 payment to Gregory Novak, an Elk Grove High School student employed by community services.

Novak is paid $2 an hour for participation in a work-study program in which he works with youngsters in Elk Grove elementary schools and attends classes at the high school.

Ullmann said he is disturbed by statements made by Novak in which he reportedly said his job kept him from demonstrating.

"I don't want to be in a position of buying off a demonstrator," said Ullmann.

ZETEK SAID THE board could not deny a person his pay for services already performed.

Keith became involved when he said he would vote against Novak's salary and the other village bills "as long as Thomas Smith is retained as director of community services."

Chernick asked Keith why he did not attend a meeting in which Smith was interviewed.

Keith said Ullmann, a former member of the community services board who resigned last month, said it would not be

Suggest Extra Garbage Wrap

After studying several means of garbage disposal, the Elk Grove Village Board of Health decided yesterday to recommend to the village that residents wrap trash in paper refuse sacks, as an additional sanitary measure.

Brother Ferdinand Leyva, board chairman, will present the recommendation to the village board next Tuesday and will also recommend that paper sacks manufactured by the St. Regis Paper Co., New York, be used for the test.

Rolling Meadows is now using the paper refuse disposal system.

Village Pres. Jack Pahl said at the board of health meeting that he feels the plastic would not be satisfactory, since sharp items cause holes and if the bags are really full, the bottoms tend to fall out.

Mrs. Barbara Watson, health inspector, said that people who have tested the two types of sacks seem to prefer the paper.

ST. REGIS HAS indicated that they would run the survey test in a section of the village, supervise installations, work with a collection crew, provide materials, take films, survey home owners' utilization of the sacks, and provide public relations for the program for 240 homes at a cost of about $2,000.

The board also reported that the third test for water pollution in Salt Creek was made.

Mrs. Watson explained the tests are being taken every other month, on water entering and leaving the village, to see if it was being contaminated by the village and if so why.

She added that so far, pollution has been found, but not enough tests have been taken yet to determine how and where the water is being polluted.

FATHER STEVEN Matthews, board member, said crayfish and other small fish were found in the creek, which he said is a good sign of minimum pollution.

In other business, Pahl swore in three board members who were recently reappointed. They are Brother Ferdinand Leyva, administrator of St. Alexius Hospital, Father Steven Matthews, St. Nicholas Episcopal Church minister, and Mrs. Charles Brock.

Shell Must Donate Land

Developers of a 30-acre apartment complex outside of Elk Grove Village must donate three acres of their land for public use, preferably a park, if the tract is to be annexed.

Village Atty. Edward Hofert Tuesday told the village board that the zoning ordinance requiring developers to dedicate 10 per cent of their land for public use applies to the Shell Development Corp.

Shell is seeking annexation and rezoning for multiple-family dwelling so they can begin construction of 504 apartment and townhouse units on the Wallace Busse farm, east of Fleetwood Lane and north of

No Suburban Apathy?

by GERRY DEZONNA

If the rally at Prospect High School proved anything yesterday, it proved the war in Vietnam doesn't really affect the students here.

Not just yet, anyway. When Mayor Robert Teichert told them the American people have a commitment and a responsibility in Vietnam, they clapped.

When Rabbi J. Gamoran told them American troops should be immediately withdrawn from Vietnam, they clapped again.

AND WHEN THE regular school day ended, they left to go to football practice, band rehearsal or work.

This was the scene at Prospect High School yesterday as nearly 1,500 students voluntarily attended a school assembly in observance of the nationwide moratorium on the war in Vietnam.

Some came wearing black armbands and peace buttons, while others carried small American flags and handmade signs urging victory in Vietnam.

But most of them came to listen to the three speakers and to see if there would be any protests, demonstrations or fist fights. It was a peaceful assembly and some people, disappointed or bored, left early.

The purpose of the rally, as the students planned it, was to protest against "suburban apathy," not to approve or disapprove of the war in Vietnam. The theme was communication on the war, and each side had its arguments.

"I DON'T APPROVE of the moratorium because it is undercutting our President, our policies and our economy. But I am participating in this moratorium today by speaking to you because you must hear both sides of the story," Teichert said.

"There's a lot of romance in the word revolution, but there is not revolution in the United States today. It's insurrection. The moratorium will not prove anything except that it is unnecessary as a means to peace and useless."

"The responsibility of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled in the streets by a vocal minority. To withdraw our troops unconditionally from Vietnam in the name of peace would be to order the annihilation and destruction of more than half of South Vietnam," he told them.

The students listened while Teichert condemned the moratorium and pledged his support to the cause in Vietnam. And they all clapped because, right or wrong, he was honest with them.

THE SAME STUDENTS clapped again when Rabbi Gamoran of Hoffman Estates told them the Vietnamese people must determine their own destiny.

"It is morally wrong for us to commit ourselves to Vietnam and to uphold the dictatorial regime in South Vietnam. We can't win the war unless we destroy all of Vietnam and obliterate its people. Then is this victory?"

They clapped again because the rabbi had been honest with them.

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain:

The war in Vietnam is puzzling, controversial and happening more than half way around the world from Prospect High School.

"THE RESPONSIBILITY of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled on the streets by a vocal minority," said Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect yesterday, as he addressed students at a rally in observance of Vietnam War moratorium at Prospect High School. Teichert told students the moratorium is immoral and wrong.

day, as he addressed students at a rally in observance of Vietnam War moratorium at Prospect High School. Teichert told students the moratorium is immoral and wrong.

Elk Grove Pupils Did Not Protest

No protests or unplanned activities backing the nationwide moratorium on the Vietnam War occurred at Elk Grove High School yesterday, according to Robert Haskell, principal.

"Things were quite abnormal here, but not because of the moratorium," Haskell said.

"We had a three-ring circus going on, but only one of the activities involved the moratorium. We had Career Day conferences, an English movie program and the social studies discussions," he said.

CAREER DAY, with 24 representatives from business and industry available to the students for discussion, was one of a series of Career Days planned for the high school this year. It was scheduled before the moratorium was declared.

The English Department has a special program in which popular movies are shown frequently. The one shown yesterday was "Gentlemen's Agreement."

Haskell announced to the students Tuesday that open discussions would be held in social studies classes on issues relative to the Vietnam war as a part of the reaction to the national moratorium.

"Very little has happened besides the discussions in the social studies rooms. The discussions have been quite interesting, pro and con, with all approaches presented. I attended several of the discussions and thought things were going well, with the students able to express their views. Many of the students apparently just came to listen rather than talk," Haskell said.

HE REPORTED that attendance at the school appeared to be the same as usual.

"Several students came to me Tuesday with notes from their parents requesting permission for them to be absent from classes so they could attend activities in Chicago, but I don't think some of them even went," he said.

Commenting on the discussions and several calls from parents objecting to them, Haskell said, "One of the problems today is that parents want us to teach high school students to think and then when the students do, they get criticized."

Fastest Draw in West Is Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 50-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicago-area homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

Siewert Is Appointed To Plan Commission

Charles Siewert of 27 Essex, Tuesday was appointed to serve on the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission.

Siewert will fill the unexpired term of William Ballard, who resigned last summer. He will serve until April 30, 1972.

Siewert is executive vice president of Continental Machine Co., Chicago. He has lived in the village for 10 years.

The board also reappointed H. Richard Potker to a three-year term on the commission.

Landmeier Road. HOFERT, IN RENDERING an opinion, said the 10 per cent clause applies both to builders of single-family homes as well as apartments.

Hofert's opinion is contrary to that of Perry Snyderman, attorney for the developers, who in testimony before the plan commission Sept. 19 and again last week, said the 10 per cent clause does not apply.

The plan commission approved the project, subject to the village attorney's interpretation of the 10 per cent clause.

Snyderman said he would ask the village board to waive the clause if it was interpreted to apply. He indicated the $10 million project would not go through if the clause was not waived.

ALTHOUGH SNYDERMAN was not present Tuesday to make his request, the board indicated that it would not waive the 10 per cent clause. It wants to meet with the developer to work out an agreement.

Lew Smith, of 171 Shadywood, made a plea before the board to require the 10 per cent dedication clause. He pointed out that the developer has the potential of providing a total of 1200 units if it takes advantage of future annexations.

Last week Snyderman said a 10 per cent donation would not be economical for the developer.

In lieu of the 10 per cent donation, Snyderman offered to let the Elk Grove Park District take over operation of the project's swimming pool and recreational facilities.

Use of these facilities would not be for the general public, Snyderman said.

EDWARD HAUSER, park commissioner, said the park district would be interested in operation of the facilities, but added that as a public body, it could not restrict usage from the general public.

The developer and the village board are now expected to meet to discuss the problem, prior to entering into a pre-annexation agreement.

HARPER JUNIOR COLLEGE held an all-day forum as their part in the nationwide Vietnam Moratorium. Speaking for the war is Dr. Philip Bennett of

Rev. Paul Lindstrom's Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights. The program was in the college's lounge area. (See story on page 7.)

Ogilvie Vetoes Annex Bill

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has vetoed House Bill 1819, which deals with the annexation of unincorporated land by municipalities.

Had the bill been signed by the governor, it would have provided for the annexation of unincorporated areas up to 120 acres in size, that were bounded by municipalities on all sides. A law allowing for such annexations exists. However, the maximum acres that can be annexed under that law is only 60.

Residents living in unincorporated areas of Cook County, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, mounted a last-ditch effort to defeat the bill after the Senate had passed it.

MRS. CAYLOR, a member of the Lake Homeowners Association and also of the Northwest Suburban Council in Prospect Heights, mailed out a bulletin to individuals and homeowners associations throughout a large part of unincorporated Cook County.

In the bulletin, she asked them to send letters to the governor, protesting HB 1819.

Three-Car Crash Leaves 4 Injured

Four persons were injured Wednesday in a three-car collision on Route 53 and Nerge Avenue in Elk Grove.

Injured was Lois Henley, 5N405 Fairway, Itasca, ankle and back sprains; Gail Henley, of the same address, head and leg lacerations; Francis Ryan, of Clarendon Hills, a bump on head; and Nancy Kuttig, 109 S. Pine Street, Palatine, a broken arm and face lacerations.

Elk Grove police said the auto driven by Lois Henley was traveling northbound on Route 53 when she applied her brakes quickly, swerving into the southbound lane, hitting the auto driven by Ryan.

Henley's auto then spun around until it collided with a southbound vehicle driven by Miss Kuttig. Miss Henley was charged with driving too fast for conditions and improper lane usage. She is scheduled to appear in Elk Grove court Nov. 6.

Wood Parents Meet

The Grant Wood Parent Teachers Club in Elk Grove Village will hold its first meeting of the school year at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the school.

There will be a short business meeting and the new principal, Donald Gruszka, and members of the staff will be introduced. An open house will follow.

The bill would not have affected Prospect Heights. However, it would have put a piece of property owned by the airline company in a vulnerable position. That property, about 110 acres, is in an unincorporated area near Des Plaines.

"We worked with United Air Lines in stopping the bill as a cooperative measure. They might be able to help us at another time," Mrs. Caylor said.

HP 1819 is the second bill dealing with annexations of unincorporated lands that Mrs. Caylor has helped to defeat.

Last summer, she led a movement among residents in unincorporated areas of Cook County to defeat HB 1241. That bill would have set up the mechanics allowing municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

That bill had been passed by the House and was in a Senate committee. As a result of extensive pressure from residents in unincorporated areas, however, HB 1241 was held up in the committee awaiting further action this fall.

Recently, Mrs. Caylor has begun organizing a "watchdog" committee on legislation such as House Bills 1241 and 1819, which would affect unincorporated areas.

Zettek Requests Keith Resignation

beneficial.

CHERNICK CHASTISED Keith for taking the opinion of one man, when 10 members of the community services board were in favor of Smith.

Keith then read a statement from Smith in which Smith clarified comments printed in the Herald last summer. The statement, having to do with why police are "ignorant," was one which Keith said should not have been made even to the board.

"This is in absolute conflict with my feelings and philosophy," said Keith. Zettek asked: "But why object to members who work for him?"

"If the board disagrees with you, should we not pay you," asked Zettek.

KEITH SAID HE IS speaking his feelings and that he may change his mind, but that at this time he favors firing Smith.

Discussion then stopped while the board approved its bills by a 4-2 vote. Keith and Ullmann voted against payment.

Will Discuss 15 New Seats

The creation of 15 additional seats on the Elk Grove Village community services board will be discussed tonight at the group's meeting, according to Alton Broten, board chairman.

Broten said the investigation of possibilities in this area has been designated to the newly established reorganization committee, but he personally advocates the idea and would ask for consideration of it at the meeting.

The new seats, for 15 associate board members, would be created for citizens to sit with the board in an advisory capacity, but they could not vote.

OTHER ITEMS ON the agenda include a report and recommendations from the youth services committee and a report from the family services committee, on possibilities of expansion of Lutheran Welfare Agency. The agency is providing counseling services from the community services office in the Elk Grove Park 'n' Shop Arcade Thursday afternoons and evenings.

The meeting will be held at 8 tonight in the medical library of St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village.

No Suburban Apathy?

by GERRY DeZONNA

If the rally at Prospect High School proved anything yesterday, it proved the war in Vietnam doesn't really affect the students here.

Not just yet, anyway.

When Mayor Robert Teichert told them the American people have a commitment and a responsibility in Vietnam, they clapped.

When Rabbi J. Gamoran told them American troops should be immediately withdrawn from Vietnam, they clapped again.

AND WHEN THE regular school day ended, they left to go to football practice, band rehearsal or work.

This was the scene at Prospect High School yesterday as nearly 1,500 students voluntarily attended a school assembly in observance of the nationwide moratorium on the war in Vietnam.

Some came wearing black armbands and peace buttons, while others carried small American flags and handmade signs urging victory in Vietnam.

But most of them came to listen to the three speakers and to see if there would be any protests, demonstrations or fist fights. It was a peaceful assembly and some people, disappointed or bored, left early.

The purpose of the rally, as the students planned it, was to protest against "suburban apathy," not to approve or disapprove of the war in Vietnam. The theme was communication on the war, and each side had its arguments.

"I DON'T APPROVE of the moratorium because it is undercutting our President, our policies and our economy. But I am participating in this moratorium today by speaking to you because you must hear both sides of the story," Teichert said.

"There's a lot of romance in the word revolution, but there is not revolution in the United States today. It's insurrection. The moratorium will not prove anything except that it is unnecessary as a means to peace and useless.

"The responsibility of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled in the streets by a vocal minority. To withdraw our troops unconditionally from Vietnam in the name of peace would be to order the annihilation and destruction of more than half of South Vietnam," he told them.

The students listened while Teichert condemned the moratorium and pledged his support to the cause in Vietnam. And they all clapped because, right or wrong, he was honest with them.

THE SAME STUDENTS clapped again when Rabbi Gamoran of Hoffman Estates told them the Vietnamese people must determine their own destiny.

"It is morally wrong for us to commit ourselves to Vietnam and to uphold the dictatorial regime in South Vietnam. We can't win the war unless we destroy all of Vietnam and obliterate its people. Then is this victory?"

They clapped again because the rabbi had been honest with them.

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain:

Elk Grove Pupils Did Not Protest

No protests or unplanned activities backing the nationwide moratorium on the Vietnam War occurred at Elk Grove High School yesterday, according to Robert Haskell, principal.

"Things were quite abnormal here, but not because of the moratorium," Haskell said.

"We had a three-ring circus going on, but only one of the activities involved the moratorium. We had Career Day conferences, an English movie program and the social studies discussions," he said.

CAREER DAY, with 24 representatives from business and industry available to the students for discussion, was one of a series of Career Days planned for the high school this year. It was scheduled before the moratorium was declared.

The English Department has a special program in which popular movies are shown frequently. The one shown yesterday was "Gentlemen's Agreement."

Haskell announced to the students Tuesday that open discussions would be held in social studies classes on issues relative to the Vietnam war as a part of the reaction to the national moratorium.

"Very little has happened besides the discussions in the social studies rooms. The discussions have been quite interesting, pro and con, with all approaches presented. I attended several of the discussions and thought things were going well, with the students able to express their views. Many of the students apparently just came to listen rather than talk," Haskell said.

HE REPORTED that attendance at the school appeared to be the same as usual.

"Several students came to me Tuesday with notes from their parents requesting permission for them to be absent from classes so they could attend activities in Chicago, but I don't think some of them even went," he said.

Commenting on the discussions and several calls from parents objecting to them, Haskell said, "One of the problems today is that parents want us to teach high school students to think and then when the students do, they get criticized."

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain:

The war in Vietnam is puzzling, controversial and happening more than half way around the world from Prospect High School.

"THE RESPONSIBILITY of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled on the streets by a vocal minority," said Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect yesterday, as he addressed students at a rally in observance of Vietnam War moratorium at Prospect High School. Teichert told students the moratorium is immoral and wrong.

Fastest Draw in West Is Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

Siewert Is Appointed To Plan Commission

Charles Siewert of 27 Essex, Tuesday was appointed to serve on the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission.

Siewert will fill the unexpired term of William Ballard, who resigned last summer. He will serve until April 30, 1972.

Siewert is executive vice president of Continental Machine Co., Chicago. He has lived in the village for 10 years.

The board also reappointed H. Richard Potker to a three-year term on the commission.

Several students came to me Tuesday with notes from their parents requesting permission for them to be absent from classes so they could attend activities in Chicago, but I don't think some of them even went," he said.

Commenting on the discussions and several calls from parents objecting to them, Haskell said, "One of the problems today is that parents want us to teach high school students to think and then when the students do, they get criticized."

Ogilvie Vetoes Annex Bill

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie has vetoed House Bill 1819, which deals with the annexation of unincorporated land by municipalities.

Had the bill been signed by the governor, it would have provided for the annexation of unincorporated areas up to 120 acres in size, that were bounded by municipalities on all sides. A law allowing for such annexations exists. However, the maximum acres that can be annexed under that law is only 60.

Residents living in unincorporated areas of Cook County, led by Mrs. Marie Caylor of Prospect Heights, mounted a last-ditch effort to defeat the bill after the Senate had passed it.

MRS. CAYLOR, a member of the Lake Homeowners Association and also of the Northwest Suburban Council in Prospect Heights, mailed out a bulletin to individuals and homeowners associations throughout a large part of unincorporated Cook County.

In the bulletin, she asked them to send letters to the governor, protesting HB 1819.

In fighting the bill Mrs. Caylor worked with United Air Lines, which was opposing the bill.

The bill would not have affected Prospect Heights. However, it would have put a piece of property owned by the airline company in a vulnerable position. That property, about 110 acres, is in an unincorporated area near Des Plaines.

"We worked with United Air Lines in stopping the bill as a cooperative measure. They might be able to help us at another time," Mrs. Caylor said.

HP 1819 is the second bill dealing with annexations of unincorporated lands that Mrs. Caylor has helped to defeat.

Last summer, she led a movement among residents in unincorporated areas of Cook County to defeat HB 1241. That bill would have set up the mechanics allowing municipalities to annex contiguous unincorporated areas by ordinance.

That bill had been passed by the House and was in a Senate committee. As a result of extensive pressure from residents in unincorporated areas, however, HB 1241 was held up in the committee awaiting further action this fall.

Zettek Requests Keith Resignation

CHERNICK CHASTISED Keith for taking the opinion of one man, when 10 members of the community services board were in favor of Smith.

Keith then read a statement from Smith in which Smith clarified comments printed in the Herald last summer. The statement, having to do with why police are "ignorant," was one which Keith said should not have been made even to the board.

"This is in absolute conflict with my feelings and philosophy," said Keith.

Zettek asked: "But why object to members who work for him?"

"If the board disagrees with you, should we not pay you," asked Zettek.

KEITH SAID HE IS speaking his feelings and that he may change his mind, but that at this time he favors firing Smith.

Discussion then stopped while the board approved its bills by a 4-2 vote. Keith and Ullmann voted against payment.

Board Asks Three Acres From Shell

Landmeier Road.

HOFERT, IN RENDERING an opinion, said the 10 per cent clause applies both to builders of single-family homes as well as apartments.

Hofert's opinion is contrary to that of Perry Snyderman, attorney for the developers, who in testimony before the plan commission Sept. 19 and again last week, said the 10 per cent clause does not apply.

The plan commission approved the project, subject to the village attorney's interpretation of the 10 per cent clause.

Snyderman said he would ask the village board to waive the clause if it was interpreted to apply. He indicated the $10 million project would not go through if the clause was not waived.

ALTHOUGH SNYDERMAN was not present Tuesday to make his request, the board indicated that it would not waive the 10 per cent clause. It wants to meet with the developer to work out an agreement.

Lew Smith, of 171 Shadywood, made a plea before the board to require the 10 per cent dedication clause. He pointed out that the developer has the potential of providing a total of 1200 units if it takes advantage of future annexations.

Last week Snyderman said a 10 per cent donation would not be economical for the developer.

In lieu of the 10 per cent donation, Snyderman offered to let the Elk Grove Park District take over operation of the project's swimming pool and recreational facilities.

Use of these facilities would not be for the general public, Snyderman said.

EDWARD HAUSER, park commissioner, said the park district would be interested in operation of the facilities, but added that as a public body, it could not restrict usage from the general public.

The developer and the village board are now expected to meet to discuss the problem, prior to entering into a pre-annexation agreement.

HARPER JUNIOR COLLEGE held an all-day forum as their part in the nationwide Vietnam Moratorium. Speaking for the war is Dr. Philip Bennett of

Rev. Paul Lindstrom's Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights. The program was in the college's lounge area. (See story on page 7.)

Three-Car Crash Leaves 4 Injured

Four persons were injured Wednesday in a three-car collision on Route 53 and Nerge Avenue in Elk Grove.

Injured was Lois Henley, 5N405 Fairway, Itasca, ankle and back sprains; Gail Henley, of the same address, head and leg lacerations; Francis Ryan, of Clarendon Hills, a bump on head; and Nancy Kuttig, 109 S. Pine Street, Palatine, a broken arm and face lacerations.

Elk Grove police said the auto driven by Lois Henley was traveling northbound on Route 53 when she applied her brakes quickly, swerving into the southbound lane, hitting the auto driven by Ryan.

Henley's auto then spun around until it collided with a southbound vehicle driven by Miss Kuttig. Miss Henley was charged with driving too fast for conditions and improper lane usage. She is scheduled to appear in Elk Grove court Nov. 5.

Walkout Mars War Program

by TOM WELLMAN

An assembly on the Vietnam War at Forest View High School in southern Arlington Heights was marred yesterday by a walkout of several hundred students. The students, however, were more concerned with protesting the assembly than the war itself.

Mrs. Dottie Sandburg, a draft counselor in Chicago, was speaking about the draft to approximately 600 students in the Forest View gym. As she spoke, the murmur of discussion rose in the gym.

STEVE PARMENTER, the student moderator, asked for order, then urged anyone not interested to leave.

A number of students — from 100 to 200 — took his advice and walked out.

One of the students, who did not wish to be identified, said that those who walked out were "basically bored" by the discussion and that the speaker was just reading her speech.

The incident marred what Principal Lawrence Jenness called a generally successful day at the high school.

Earlier, classroom discussions had covered the Vietnam War, with both pro- and anti-war arguments being presented by students.

JENNESS AND several students said the walkout was at least partially sparked by students not sympathetic with an anti-war position.

After the walkout, the program continued. It was sponsored by the Student Involvement Coordinating Committee with Jenness' permission and anyone willing to speak was allowed to address the group.

Mrs. Sandburg, before the walkout took place, said that one aim of the Selective Service system was to reduce the number of options open to young persons and to direct them into occupations which Selective Service believes will aid the nation.

She said individuals should develop their own attitudes toward service in the military and consider alternatives to service as a soldier.

Following Mrs. Sandburg, another student, Rick Pazio, urged the students to accept the political course of the country, whether they regard that course as right or wrong. He urged the students to think about what they were doing and he gained loud applause for his remarks.

The microphone was then opened to anyone who wanted to speak. A folksinger, Curt Van Arsdale, entertained briefly, and then a number of students either loudly attacked or staunchly defended America's efforts in Vietnam.

The assembly was held on school time.

WITH DEATH IN EACH hand, a Northwestern University student and a new group of commuters arrived. The debate lasted until the train came and a new group of commuters arrived. morning Arlington Heights commuters.

Teens For Warman Hunting Members

The Wheeling Township committee of Teenagers for Warman, a youth group supporting Democrat Edward Warman for 13th District congressman, is looking for members.

Tom Mattini, St. Viator High School sophomore and chairman of the local committee, said he is looking for teenagers who would be area chairmen in local towns.

He is looking for volunteers in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Buffalo Grove.

"WE ARE reorganizing our committee to offer an alternative to teens who believe that Crane does not truly represent their views," Mattini said of Philip Crane, the Republican candidate for congressman.

"Our committee will stress the programs as advocated by Warman," Mattini said, listing such issues as Vietnam, pollution, inflation and "other important issues where teens disagree with Crane."

He said the teenage group will try to bring into Warman's campaign the workers of some of the more liberal and moderate candidates in the recent Oct. 7 GOP congressional primary.

CRANE, A conservative, won the recent eight-man Republican primary race for 13th District congressman.

Mattini has invited teens interested in working for Warman to call him at 537-2592 after 3 p.m. He said youths may also write him in care of Teenagers for Warman Committee, Wheeling Township Campaign Headquarters, 1250 Anthony Road, Wheeling, 60090.

Sex Education Is Challenged

by SUE CARSON

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, Tuesday challenged School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill to a debate on the subject of school sex education.

Lindstrom spoke at a meeting sponsored by the Wheeling Township MOTOREDE (Movement to Restore Decency) Committee. About 60 people attended the meeting at the Mark Twain School in Wheeling. Lindstrom quoted a portion of the district curriculum guide which states, "Sex education is a comprehensive, progressive program which is planned to produce socially and morally desirable attitudes, practices and personal behavior."

"I CHALLENGE GILL to produce evidence that what is stated in the curriculum guide will be accomplished," Lindstrom said.

"If he has the facts, let the people see the facts. I don't think they are available."

Lindstrom said, "The surface has barely been scratched when it comes to sex education in this district."

"There will be legal techniques put into action here. Gill will be spending as much time in the courtroom as in his offices at 999 Dundee." Lindstrom did not elaborate on whether some legal action definitely is planned against Dist. 21.

Herman Mueller, chairman of the MOTOREDE Committee, was contacted by the Herald yesterday but refused to say whether MOTOREDE is planning any legal action against the district.

In his talk, Lindstrom said he believes most educators sponsoring sex education programs are sincere people.

"THE DIST. 21 administrators are sincere individuals. They are truly interested in doing what is best for the children. But I believe they are sincerely wrong."

"I'm not opposed to sex education, but I believe it belongs in the home. If parents are unwilling or unable to train their children in these areas, let them seek advice from the church, other parents who are willing to give it to them or the school."

"But let's not force sex education down our children's throats."

"Innocent Defiled," a film put out by the public relations department of the John Birch Society to deal with sex education programs in the nation, was also shown at the meeting.

He's Letting the Chips Fall

by PAUL R. JESCHKE

SAUSALITO, Calif. (UPI)—Barney West, a former sailor turned wood sculptor, may be the world's most ambitious whittler.

Not content to carve away at small blocks of wood, West takes on huge chunks of the world's tallest trees with chain saw, chisels and sander.

"Michelangelo had his granite blocks and I've got my redwood trees," he said recently while chipping away with a wood chisel. "We both, if you'll pardon the expression, let the chips fall where they may."

West's biggest project to date is a redwood totem pole that stands five stories high and weighs more than four tons. It now stands in front of a supermarket at Lake Tahoe on the California-Nevada border.

"I might have made it bigger, but it got sort of windy when I climbed up there about the 40 foot level," West said with a chuckle. "Besides, it was getting sort of difficult to handle. They had to hire a special truck rig as it was to haul it up there."

In addition to totem poles, the 50-year-old Sausalito sculptor also turns out an impressive assortment of ship's figureheads, cigar store Indians, classical sculpture pieces and, his newest love, abstract free-forms.

The former merchant mariner's workshop, gallery and home is a series of small shacks alongside the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks just north of San Francisco on an inlet of the bay. A handcarved totem pole and the sign, "Tiki Junction," directs the curious to the woodchip-covered outdoor studio.

West and his three assistants turn out about 300 pieces of wood carvings a year, ranging in size from about 3 feet to about 20 feet. His most expensive creation was a modernistic carving of a pair of hands delivering a child. It sold for $5,000, although some of the smaller pieces bring $75.

"None of us is getting rich," he said. "But in a good season we manage to take in enough money to stay off county welfare." He is teaching the wood carving craft to the assistants and operates what is believed to be the only wood carving school in the world.

West first became interested in giant carvings while sailing in the Merchant Marine during World War II. Twice he had ships torpedoed out from under him. After the SS Vistula Victory sank, West found himself shipwrecked on an island in the Mariana group in the South Pacific where the natives taught him to carve small statues from teak and mahogany.

About nine years ago, West—who sports a bushy red mustache and still wears a captain's hat from his seafaring days—moved into the cabin of an abandoned schooner which had been deposited near the railroad tracks. He planted some South Pacific-like foliage and went to work.

"I just started fooling around with wood carvings again and the next thing you know, I was busy with chain saw, chisel and sander," he said. "I've been at it ever since."

All of the sculptor's carvings are done in redwood because it is the most weather resistant and insect-proof of all woods. In addition, the redwood, available only in a 200-mile stretch along the nearby California coast, has a rich, fine grain that produces fascinating effects in the finished product.

"Some of the trees I've carved are more than 1,000 years old," West said. "It almost makes you feel sad. But then, I didn't cut them down and I only take rejects the sawmills don't want or donations from local tree surgeons."

The sculptor said he doesn't see a darn thing in the logs when they are first brought to him, "but if I stare long enough, a design begins forming in my head and I get busy with a saw."

Although he still carves occasional ship figureheads, this and totem poles, it's the modernistic, abstract free-forms that take up most of his time now.

West admits, however, that he still has a strong urge to carve a classic nude female.

"My friends," he says, "think I should call it whittler's mother."

Cashing in on Sage

by ROBERTA ULRICH

ONTARIO, Ore. (UPI)—To most Westerners sagebrush is that scrubby brush—more weed than flower—covering the desert for mile after mile after mile.

To Henry Stitt, a transplanted Mid-Westerner, it's money in the bank. Stitt, who figures "when the bloom is on the sage" is just as much a part of the Old West as the six-shooter, conceived the idea of selling live specimens of the pungent bush.

Stitt, a native of Lansing, Mich., worked for the Job Corps in Washington, D.C., before moving to this eastern Oregon town where he manufactures campers.

Driving around this high desert country he noted the thousands of acres of sagebrush and kept thinking, "Somebody must want that stuff."

His friends here laughed till they cried—except one.

"I'll go along with that," said the man who is now his silent partner, when Stitt broached his idea.

So this summer the new Winnemucca Sage Co., placed a single small ad in an eastern newspaper (Christian Science Monitor). Two weeks later the firm was getting a steady trickle of orders—and Stitt said it appeared they hadn't even got their message across.

"Parents of young boys in the East think little of plunking down $4.95 for a pair of holsters and $4.95 for cowboy boots or hat are nothing," he said. "I want to sell parents on the idea of getting sagebrush for their kids as part of the Western outfit. Sagebrush is a lot more Western than a plastic pistol."

He also believes there are "a lot of displaced Westerners who long for the smell of the sagebrush."

Initial response to his ad, however, came mostly from "landscape people interested in the plant from a novelty standpoint."

He termed the response good, anyway. "It was all good, clean orders with checks enclosed," he said.

Stitt plans to expand the ads in Eastern metropolitan newspapers and perhaps set up point of purchase sales in big shopping centers. He also is exploring the idea of pressing sagebrush into fireplace logs and using it in candles, taking "the fresh clean desert smell into city homes."

Before launching his sell-the-sagebrush project, Stitt did some checking and found that sagebrush transplanted from the dry desert here thrives in wet western Oregon. He is convinced it will do equally well in the humid East.

"No special care required," said his ad in what may be the advertising understatement of the year. Sagebrush sometimes grows wild up to 12 feet tall.

Stitt believes his major problem now is to get his idea across to potential buyers. Then he thinks, there will be no limit to his prospects. There certainly is no limit to his supply.

He and his partner run cattle on a ranch near here and he estimates conservatively "there is enough sagebrush on the range to keep us going for years."

500 Attend Harper's Moratorium Program

By TOM WELLMAN

Harper Junior College's Vietnam Moratorium program drew about 500 students yesterday morning on the college's campus in Palatine.

It also drew tight security in the form of Palatine and college police checking student identifications at the college's entrances on Algonquin and Roselle roads.

The security check was ordered by Harper officials who were fearful of outsiders from the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago.

FRANK BORELL, director of student activities at Harper, said that the security check was called to "insure our program." He said that a petition had been circulated at Chicago Circle urging students to attend the program at Harper.

"It's just a safety precaution," he said, "We don't want outsiders to destroy our activities."

However, the college's actions drew fire from Ronald Raup, student body president.

He said the administration was scared of the community's reaction to the program and that the program at Harper had been organized in such a way that it should be respected.

MOST PERSONS without Harper identification were barred from the campus.

Gary Smith, a photographer for the college paper, charged that a Palatine policeman reached into his pocket without permission to search for the student's regular college identification (Smith said he had displayed a press card).

A Paddock reporter was required to report to the campus security office to be admitted to campus. Captain Paul Pitt, head of campus security, declined to comment on the reasons for the heavy security.

Inside the college administration building, the students heard a variety of pro and anti-war speakers, including 13th District Democratic Congressional candidate Edward Warman, his manager Edward Disch, and two speakers from Rev. Paul Lindstrom's Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights, Philip Bennett and Roland Renee.

WARMAN, SPEAKING from notes, stressed his involvement in the race for the 13th District seat. He later answered questions from the audience.

Bennett said, "I'm glad to see you young people stand up and say what you feel, but I'm worried that some of the young people today are treasonous." He drew only scattered applause from the audience.

The audience was composed mostly of students in casual dress. An occasional moratorium button or a black armband stood out in the crowd.

A number of students sprawled comfortably on the floor near the speakers. Faculty members watched from the rim of the crowd, while students filtered in and out from classes.

SOME CLASSES were canceled by individual professors to permit students to attend the forum. However, many classes were in session throughout the morning.

Later in the afternoon, a presentation by the literary, drama and music department of Columbia College was scheduled. There was a possibility that a folk music and folk rock program might be presented, too, in conjunction with the Vietnam moratorium.

All the News.

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are presently being published in the U.S. capital about 50 newsletters that purport to give the inside slant on what is happening in Washington.

I have long envied the authors of these newsletters because they don't have to worry about punctuation marks. They just sprinkle a few dots (...) here and there and that's about it.

Not long ago I decided to start a newsletter of my own. After checking into the matter, I concluded the only field not already covered by a newsletter would be a newsletter for people who don't give a hoot about what is happening in Washington.

So I herewith offer the first issue of: The Outsiders Newsletter

...Senate may vote sometime soon on Haynsworth Supreme Court nomination if it hasn't already done so...current guessing around Capitol is that nomination will be either confirmed or rejected...outcome hinges on whether majority of senators vote "yea" or "nay"...provided nomination isn't withdrawn before it comes to vote...

...This year's tax reform bill appears to be in trouble...nobody is saying tax reform bill appears to be in trouble but that appraisal can be arrived at through historical perspective...tax reform bills in past have always appeared to be in trouble and this year is no different from last year...except that it's odd numbered...

...Economists privately admit they are puzzled over economy...but when pinned down they refuse to say why they are puzzled...Treasury sources privately acknowledge that if economists weren't puzzled they wouldn't be economists...especially in an odd-numbered year...

...Look for new development in Paris peace talks before first of the year if the war isn't over by then...should war continue for the rest of October, negotiators may agree to change calendar to November...but end of fighting would rule out chances for progress in peace talks this year...

...Who is calling shots on foreign policy in Nixon administration???...is it Secretary of State Rogers or White House adviser Kissinger???...Rogers and Kissinger would like answers to these questions...President Nixon has been asking...

...Rising crime rate in Washington may hasten action on anti-crime legislation...or Congress may wait until holdup men start holding up other holdup men...

HEW plans to speed pace of school integration in South while Justice Department slows pace of desegregation...prospect is that race will end in dead heat...

This is a long story.

But we'll try to be brief. Once upon a time, there was a coat started getting longer when most everything else was getting shorter. It went from mini length to knee length to midi length and then — when hardly anybody was looking — it dropped right down to the floor. And all of a sudden, everybody wanted it to wear over everything from pants to dresses to jumpsuits. Especially they wanted it for cold days. And nights out. And because we agree that it's just great fun to have one long coat in your closet, we have a number that we invite you to see that we think are the end. The End:

The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1846 the first operation with a patient under ether was performed at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

In 1860 abolitionist John Brown staged a raid on Harper's Ferry, Va. He seized a hotel, arsenal, firehouse and 30 townspeople but was captured two days later.

In 1934 Chinese Communists began their long march to the northwest, where they established headquarters and mapped strategy against the nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek (which they overthrew in 1949).

A thought for the day: Marcus Aurelius said, "Receive wealth or position with arrogance and be ready to let it go."

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

SORRY ABOUT THAT, Pat, but I'm sure you know I tried.

Last weekend was supposed to have been a reuniting of the Paddock area with one of its all-time greats — Pat Dunnigan.

Dunnigan, who was an all-around athlete at Forest View in the early sixties, now plays at a defensive back for the University of Iowa. Last weekend I had hoped to interview the 6-2, 180-pound Elk Grove native after the Hawkeyes polished off the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

However, the interview that had been planned for several weeks was wiped out as suddenly as the 17-0 lead the Hawks held as they entered the upsetting final quarter last Saturday.

I'd planned on talking with Pat the day before the game, but I found out that that couldn't be arranged.

You see, Iowa has always had plenty of trouble with Wisconsin and hadn't beaten their hosts in Camp Randall stadium since 1898. And in 1967 the Hawks had had the misfortune of being tied by the Badgers (21-21) — the only high point in the last 23 games for the winless team of Coach John Coatta.

Sooooooo, the security surrounding the Hawks' outside activities was very great. I was told that I could talk to Pat when he came down from the dressing room after the team's workout on Friday, but I only had two minutes with him before the bus left.

I was also informed that he could not be interviewed that evening or the following morning either in person or on the phone.

Ugh! With these rules racing through my mind, I met the former all-star, who unfortunately was one of the last to leave the locker room. I managed to blurt out a couple of questions before he mounted the bus steps, and one of his answers stuck in my mind:

"We've always had a hard time beating Wisconsin."

Dunnigan's statement, which came in answer to my query of how the Hawks would do in the Big Ten this season, seemed kind of funny at the time. But at 4 p.m. on Saturday, as the Wisconsin crowd burst on the field in a victory cry resembling that at Shea Stadium a couple of weeks before, Pat's cautious statement proved true.

After I had left Pat the day before, I asked his coach — Ray Nagel — if I would be able to get a few questions answered after the game on Saturday. He said I'd be able to get into the locker room, which figured to be a happy place to be after my alma mater creamed the Badgers on their Tartan Turf field.

The dull, green artificial gridiron, which Dunnigan had said was very fast, showed its worth at game time for it was dry despite the heavy rains of the day and night before.

Iowa zipped off to a 17-0 lead and seemed to be ready to pull away for good in the final period. Then it happened — over two years of frustration finally erupted in the Wisconsin offense as it put an amazing 23 points on the board.

With over a minute left to play, the usually boo bird crowd chirped a different sound — "We're No. 1!" — as it leaped the fence and poured over the field. When the game was chanting to a close, I tried in vain to get through the mob and reach the players' exit. But only the Hawkeyes made it and only because they were wearing helmets and pads.

As soon as they disappeared through the door the place was locked up tight. I had given it the old college try but, as Leo Durocher says in one of his commercials, "Not today, Beansie!"

As we pulled away from the stadium, we found that it might take sometime for the Wisconsin natives to get used to having a winner. A truck driver pulled up next to our car in the traffic jam and seriously asked: "Who won the game?"

When we told him, he remarked: "Unbelievable!"

And that just about sums it up for us, too.

AS FOR DUNNIGAN'S play, when he was in there he did a fine job. Nagel used him sparingly in the first half, but had him playing most of the second in his defensive secondary position.

PAT DUNNIGAN
No. 21 Does His Job

The one crucial pass play that gave the Badgers the lead in the final moments of the game wasn't Pat's fault. While he was covering the primary receiver very well, the secondary receiver got loose on the other side of the field and made the go-ahead catch.

Pat was in on several tackles including the one pictured in this column. On that one, Alan (A-Train) Thompson broke loose from several Hawkeyes before Dunnigan made the step. However, it was a little late as he fell right on the goal line for the score.

WHILE WALKING the artificial sidelines, I checked out the turf in several ways. I found that it can burn, it can get sticky, and it is slippery and hard.

"Hey, get that off the field!" yelled a sideline guard when someone tossed a cigarette on the wooly sidelines. "It'll burn the turf!"

And while I was looking for burns in the "grass," I saw plenty of problems for the groundskeepers — gum. The sticky stuff easily can get tangled up in the Tartan Turf which resembles a carpet as opposed to Astro Turf which is perfectly straight grass.

The slippery and hard part came when, while crouching near the action with several other photographers, the ball carrier came our way. We all scrambled for safety but I slipped on the wet sidelines and crashed into a wire fence along with several players. I bounced off the fence and slammed on to the turf but my fall was cushioned somewhat by the puddle I flopped in.

I'll never laugh when a photographer gets wiped out on the sidelines again.

International Ski Show Opens at Arlington Park

Skiing and winter sports enthusiasts in the area will have a rare opportunity this weekend.

They won't have to travel any farther than Euclid Ave. and Wilke Rd. in Arlington Heights to enjoy the ninth annual International Ski and Winter Sports Show, being housed this year at Arlington Park Exhibition Hall.

The show, which will feature several interesting attractions and top names including Jean-Claude Killy, should lure snow buffs from far and near.

The show opens at 4 p.m. Friday and lasts until midnight. Other hours will be 11 p.m. Saturday and 1-3 p.m. Sunday.

Some of the main attractions will be:

- Killy, three-Olympic Gold Medal Winner.
- Ski fashion show with model Barbara Alley and skiing champion Penny Pitou.
- Ski "answerman," instructor Pepi Steigler and film producer Dick Barrymore.

- Ski Binding Workshop with inventor-engineer Gordon Lipe.

- Chalk-talk by Frank Covino.

- Canadian figure skating champion Debbie Wilkes.

- Demonstrations on the Ski-Dek.

- Scores of winter sports exhibits by manufacturers, resorts, airplanes, railroads, car rental systems, travel agencies, newspapers, radio stations and magazines.

SKATING SHOW

Skating champions, led by Canadian figure style medalist Debbie Wilkes, will present "Cameos on Ice," on an iceless rink.

This iceless wonder, molded from vinyl plastic, has a surface very similar to ice and is known as "Slick." Ordinary ice skates may be used on this surface. However, a definite "striking" motion is required for a start. Once underway, a skater may glide as if he were indeed on an ice-covered surface. Sure footing offered by this revolutionary development makes jumps fairly simple, even on a small surface.

The rinks are light and durable and may be used anywhere in the home or yard and have application for indoor skating demonstrations.

Daily during the Ski Show, internationally-known figure skaters will perform on "Slick," demonstration techniques for which champions on ice are renowned.

SKI TRAVEL BOOM

With a banner travel season predicted for ski fans, scores of transportation companies and resorts are developing exhibits and sponsoring special events at the Ski Show.

The ski world is vast. There are hundreds of areas, large and small, which annually attract increasing numbers of skiers and winter sports enthusiasts. To encourage travel for skiing vacations, major airlines, railways, and bus companies are offering increased numbers of ski tours.

Trans World Airlines is offering packaged flights to such spots as Val d'Isere, home of Jean-Claude Killy, Chamonix in the French Alps, and resorts in Switzerland, Germany, Austria and the United States.

United Air Lines, stepping up its ski tour schedules, concentrates on our native skiing areas. It has tours set for Aspen, Vail and other Colorado resorts; Squaw Valley, Heavenly Valley and Ski Incline in the high Sierras; Sun Valley, Idaho; Alta, Brighton and Park City, Utah; MA, Hood, Oregon; Crystal Mountain, Washington; Mammoth Mountain and Yosemite Park, Calif.; and many popular areas in New England.

Continental Air Lines tours feature popular areas in the Southwest as well as a virtual choice of any challenging ski slope in the Rocky Mountains.

Greyhound Bus Lines, after successful experimentation in last year's skiing season, is stepping up the tempo of regional ski holidays. Starting where airlines leave off, Greyhound will offer not only packaged tours, but also charter trips. These will be short hauls such as to the resort areas in Michigan and Wisconsin.

Alaska Airlines, one of the newer entries into the competition for the skiing dollar, is featuring tours to Mt. Alyeska near Anchorage. This area is noted for its near-perfect snow conditions and mild temperatures.

SNOWMOBILE ATTIRE

A look at the latest in snowmobile attire, from the outside in, will be shown by Thede Marine, Ltd., Downers Grove, and Ski-Doo Sports, Ltd., apparel and accessories affiliate of Bombardier, Ltd., at the Show.

A model will give visitors a look at the latest in outdoor snowmobiling attire, the new leather-look Vistram one-piece suit with fur-trimmed hood by Ski-Doo Sports, then will exhibit beneath it the latest in sweaters, two-piece wool knit apres-snowmobiling suit, insulated underwear, and the newest in bikinis for use with Bombardier's new water products, Sea-Doo aqua sweaters.

The leather-look Vistram suits (jackets are also available in the same material) "breathe" for extra comfort and bring a new styling to snowmobile suits for women and men. And after snowmobiling, Ski-Doo Sports' new two-piece wool knit suits offer matching or contrasting colors, with shoulder and arm stripes, for men, women and children.

SKI FACTS ON RADIO

"The Snow Finder," WMAQ Radio, will debut its exciting ski plans for the season at the Ski Show this weekend.

Plans include giving the very latest in snow-tracking techniques; attractive Ski Bunnies reporting ski conditions in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan with mid-week coverage of conditions at popular ski resorts in Colorado and New Mexico; a "snow phone" number to call for up-to-the-minute ski reports 24 hours a day; all-expenses-paid ski vacations to Colorado and New Mexico for contest winners; and WMAQ snow-finder parties hosted by Ski Bunnies.

Floyd Brown, a disc jockey at the station, will kick off the "Snow Finder" booth Friday night with a live broadcast from 6:30-10 p.m. Floyd's special guests will include many of the featured headliners of "The New Ski Show of the '70's."

All of these features and others are available this weekend — not more than a few minutes' driving time away.

Paddock Area Grid Results

by KEITH REINHARD

Conant and Hersey grid squads continued to dominate various lower level packs last week, setting the stage in at least two instances for strategic showdowns when their varsity teammates collide with one another Friday for even higher stakes.

Bruce Glover's Huskie jayvees remained head and shoulders above the rest of their loop by shutting out Fremd 22-0 and Scott Schubert tallied twice to move into a tie with mate Scott Davis for the loop scoring lead at 30 points apiece. And though the Cougars fell before a 20-0 Elk Grove blitz, they could still move within grasp of the Huskies by knocking them off in this Friday night's preliminary.

In the meantime Wheeling and Arlington posted triumphs to stay in the junior varsity race as well and Prospect's Don Lewis remained in the scoring title runoff by converting two of the four TD pitches served up Bob Frantell against Palatine and adding three extra points. Lewis has 25 points to his credit.

Along the soph circuit the Cougars and Huskies stand alone at the top with 4-0 marks after disposing of Elk Grove and Fremd 13-0 and 16-0 respectively. George Swegles picked up his seventh TD while Conant was winning and he heads up the soph scoring parade with 44 pointers but Prospect's Ray Dryjanski and Wheeling's Mike Keenan stayed in contention while helping their squads post triumphs.

Dryjanski came up with a three tally spurt as the Knights won 14-6 and he now has 36 points. Keenan contributed eight counters to a like 14-6 Wildcat win to up his total to 38.

Conant in Frosh A and Forest View in Frosh B were the dominant forces in fledgling football after both picked up their fourth straight conquests without a loss. Offensive minded Conant in the A loop now has tallied 154 points while limiting the foe to 12 after a 26-0 blanking of the Grenadiers.

Conant's TD twins O'Malley and Murphy — both went over the 50-point mark too with one score apiece but O'Malley snared a two-point conversion to move ahead of his teammate in the scoring race.

Forest View Bs meanwhile remained the only unscored upon team around by edging Arlington 6-0. Falcon quarterback Meyer plunged across from the one-yard line in the final stanza to forge the triumph.

Elk Grove kept pace with Forest View in frosh B action by dropping Conant 22-8 and Grenadier Benevides upped his scoring total to 42 with a pair of paydirt scampers.

Area Cross Country Report

Fremd Finishes 9-0 in Mid-Suburban Action

Fremd High School's cross country team showed its speed and depth Tuesday by easily outrunning Palatine 17-46 to win the Mid-Suburban League championship in dual meet standings.

What makes Fremd's victory so astounding was the 17-46 score. Palatine finished third in the standings with a 7-2 record yet Fremd, which was 9-0, took eight of the first nine places.

Fremd's Dan Pittenger took first place in the meet with a time of 14:12 over the 2.75 mile course for a new record. The record was set on a sloppy, muddy course.

Rich Bowman was second in 14:16 and Wally Spiniolas was third in 14:20 for the Vikings. Palatine's Steve Bahnsfeth was fourth in 14:23 followed by Vikings Bill Jarocki (14:24), Chuck Porter (14:27), Jim Jarocki (15:02), Mike Pittchell (15:10) and Bruce Buchholz (15:15).

Palatine took 10th through 14th places with Fred Miller, Paul Davenport, Tom Krege and Joe Camp.

The Vikings went 11-0 in dual meets for the 1969 season and took first in the Forest City Invitational and second in the Peoria Invitational.

The school's varsity cross country record in dual meets since Fremd opened in 1924.

The Vikings also won the frosh-soph race against Palatine, 19-41. Bill Gross, undefeated in dual meets this year, was first in 10:55 over the 2.0 mile course.

PROSPECT ROCKS FALCONS

"We'll get you next year."

That was the feeling after Prospect's varsity team romped past a weaker Forest View host, 18-41 last Tuesday night.

The reason for the Falcons' optimism is their lower level strength — 19-44 victory for the sophomores and a 15-49 win for the freshmen.

Leading the Knights by capturing the first three spots were Keith Matthews (15:01.6), Bill Allen (15:03), and Alan Morrison (15:12). Other Knights in the top 10 were Mark Tamsen, Tom Klinker, and Peter Dumke.

Bobb Bell paced the losers with a fourth place (15:23). The other top four for the Falcons were Kevin Sarni, Craig Henderson, Al Schmanke and Ryan Maly.

It was also a double dual affair with Barrington being the other team. Prospect beat the non-conference foe, 15-44, and Forest View did the same, 27-29. Both MSL sophomore teams also won.

GROVE SWEEPS BY 'CATS

"It shocked us!"

That was the feeling expressed by Elk Grove head coach "Gerry" Wollard after sweeping Wheeling on all three levels of cross country last Tuesday night.

The Grove captured the varsity outing,

21-35, the sophomore meet, 25-31, and the freshman affair, 24-33.

Jim Ottinger paced the varsity win with a 14:50 clocking over his home course at Busse Woods. It was his fourth medalist effort in Mid-Suburban League meets.

The rest of the Grove finishers were Larry Cyrier in third (15:17), Greg Dziem in fourth (15:21), Tom Ziffra in sixth (15:43), Mike Bachus in seventh (15:57) and Mark Siewert in 10th (16:19).

All Coach Ron Bessemer's Hawks have done so far this year is out-shoot 13 straight opponents without a loss . . . 13-0 in duals!

And one of the most important victories of the season came last Tuesday as the golfers became the second team in Harper's young history to dominate the Eastern Division and capture its coveted title.

Heading into the double dual at Amundsen College's home course — Glenview Park Golf Club in Glenview, the Harper crew has a showdown with the only other undefeated team in the division — Prairie State College.

The Hawks merely posted a sparkling 310 compared to Prairie State's 332 and Amundsen's 354 over the par 70, 6,055-yard layout. The 310 had been the goal Bessemer had challenged his talented team to total between the opening match of the season and the conference meet, a week from this Friday.

"We did a mighty fine job today," Bessemer said following the meet. "I knew they were capable of it."

Pete Hahn paced the fine attack with a 38-36 for a four-over-par 74. Pat Dwyer and Rich Ortwerth had a pair of 78s and Jack Benson posted an 80. Tom Navratil, who finished the fifth man, had an 85.

The Hawks' overall title hopes were strengthened by the addition of former St. Viator star Ken Marrini to the squad.

"The pressure's off a little now and we're going to relax a little bit," said Bessemer. But he added, "I'd still like to see them shoot a 310 or any par 72 course."

They may get that chance this afternoon as they host a double dual with Sauk Valley and Rock Valley colleges at Palatine Hills Golf Club.

The meet culminated the dual portion of the loop season for both sides and allowed Hersey to pull into eighth place at the finish line with a 2-7 mark. The defeat was number eight absorbed by the Panthers in nine circuit races.

Gawlik zipped in at 13:10 over the 2.5-mile layout. Glenbard latched on to the 2, 5, 7, 9 and 12 slots but it wasn't enough to offset a third place windup by Frank Walworth, a fourth place finish by Ed Rieger, a sixth place clocking by Brian Zimmer and an eighth place showing by Larry Imman.

Art Steele's visiting unit also captured the frosh-soph showdown, 15-49. John Jones of the Huskies set the winning pace over the 1.9 mile layout at 11:34.

CONANT SHADES ARLINGTON

Despite watching Arlington take first and second places, Conant rallied to knock off the Cardinals 23-30 in a Mid-Suburban League cross country meet on the Pure Oil Course in Rolling Meadows. The win gave Conant a 6-3 record and fourth place in the MSL and the loss gave the Cardinals a 4-5 record and a tie for fifth in the conference.

Scott Butler, undefeated in the MSL this season, and Scott Teuber were first and second with times of 15:16.4 and 15:26, respectively. But Conant took the next six out of seven places to win the meet.

Reed Mikrut of Conant was third, Steve Feutz of Conant was fourth, John Curtin of Arlington was fifth, Dave Guarino of Conant was sixth, Ron Schweigert of Conant was seventh, Hiram Lopesilvero was eighth and Paul Jungwirth of Conant was ninth. Mike Yorke of Arlington took 10th and Dale Bond of Conant was 11th.

Arlington won the frosh-soph race 18-39. The win gave the Cardinals first place in the MSL in the frosh-soph division.

Rosenstein Center To Be Dedicated

The Harry Rosenstein all-purpose training center for retarded children will be dedicated 2 p.m. Sunday at Little City in Palatine. Little City is a residential community for mentally retarded children.

A new outdoor amphitheater at Little City, which adjoins the training center, will be dedicated Sunday at 1:30 p.m. The amphitheater will be known as the Variety Club Forum Theater in honor of the Variety Club of Illinois.

VARIETY CLUB officers and members, headed by Arthur M. Holland, chief baker, will attend the dedication ceremony Sunday.

The training center at Little City will serve as the core of the community and will provide treatment and training facilities under one roof. The facility will enable all classrooms to be consolidated in one central location, providing great attention for each pupil.

In addition to a library and auditorium, the training center houses a gymnasium, home economics department, pre-vocational and occupational departments, music room and a speech therapy department. Donald R. Becker is superintendent of Little City, a 60-acre residential community for the mentally handicapped.

LITTLE CITY strives to guide and enrich the retarded child's experience so that through development of attitudes, understandings and skills he may be better able to become a contributing member of society.

A $300,000 facility to serve the blind mentally retarded, the John Cardinal Cody Training Center, was recently placed in service at Little City. This facility will house 24 pupils.

The Variety Club has also presented a bus to Little City to be used for transporting the children to special events outside the community. Known as the Sunshine Coach, the bus will be officially presented in a ceremony in Chicago 2:45 p.m. Monday.

The Way We See It

Surplus Not Needed

The last thing Illinois taxpayers would want to hear is that they're paying more taxes than necessary to keep the state running.

They're bombarded with taxes and fees from so many directions that anything other than a pay-as-you-go basis would be unthinkable.

And yet, that's exactly the bad news they're getting, or seem to be getting.

State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III reported the state $157 million ahead as of Sept. 30, the biggest surplus in the General Revenue Fund in 20 years, and has predicted a $200 million surplus by year's end.

This, said Stevenson, is the work of Gov. Richard Ogilvie, and not worthy of praise. Rather, the treasurer charged, the governor has overstated Illinois' financial crisis to promote his tax program.

The situation is distressingly reminiscent of that last May, when Democrat Stevenson and Republican Ogilvie stood at opposite poles in viewing the state's fiscal mess.

The governor pitched for his new tax program, built around the state income tax, by saying it was necessary just to get the state to break even. Stevenson said the governor's arithmetic was wrong and that there was money available that Ogilvie hadn't even thought about using, with the combination adding up to a potential $388 million surplus.

That dispute smacked badly of politics, and neither man moved to clear up the obvious contradictions.

The current dispute also smacks of politics, particularly with persistent reports that Stevenson is readying for a run next year against Ralph Smith, Ogilvie's appointee as interim U.S. Senator and a man who helped get the revenue program passed.

This time, however, the Ogilvie side is not so much disputing Stevenson's figures as putting a different interpretation on them. Finance Dir. John McCarter — in effect conceding Stevenson's assessment — has described the surplus as a credit to Ogilvie's economy program, and not a misjudgment of income.

McCarter dismissed the surplus as relatively small, but praised his boss for helping bring on "the return of solvency to Illinois state government."

Illinois' taxpayers deserve better than semantics or politics when being told about the state's financial condition. They deserve to know if there is a surplus or a deficit, and what it means.

They deserve to know if they are paying too many taxes. And — if Stevenson's figures mean what they seem to mean — they deserve a serious effort at the tax reform promised by Ogilvie.

Spotlight:

Can 'Progress' Be Checked?

by BETSY BROOKER

Prospect Heights has all of the characteristics of a big city, high income suburb. But if you look a little closer and investigate some of the services available to residents such as fire protection, it is still rural.

The population of 6,500 is serviced by two fire departments. The 34-member Prospect Heights Volunteer Fire Department works within the boundaries of Euclid, Rand, Palatine and Wolf roads. Central, Old Willow and River Roads and the Soo Railroad border the area serviced by the 30-member Forest River Volunteer Fire Department.

ACCORDING TO THE newly appointed chief of the Prospect Heights fire department, Donald R. Gould, "Basically we are still a rural fire department. The highest thing we ever have to fight is two-and-a-half story churches."

Equipment in the Prospect Heights department includes three water trucks, one utility truck, one squad truck and one chief's car. Total water capacity is 3,500 gallons.

The Forest River department has only two water trucks, and two emergency vehicles. Total water capacity is 1,500 gallons.

Neither department has a snorkel truck, nor an aerial truck, nor fire hydrants in 95 per cent of the area. According to state regulations this larger equipment is not necessary for fire districts where single-family residences predominate, and no buildings are over three stories tall.

HOW LONG THE present "under three stories" status will last is another question. The Forest River department has recently been threatened with the prospect of a five-story apartment and business complex at River and Foundry Roads.

The Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals recommended on Sept. 26 that the area be rezoned from "single family residences" to "general service" to accommodate the multiple story buildings. A final decision will be reached by the Cook County Board next Monday.

Forty per cent of the Forest River department has threatened to resign if the rezoning request is granted. According to Fire Chief Charles Nick, "Our two pumps can't handle a five-story building; we will need snorkel and aerial ladder trucks, which we can't afford. We are working from almost nothing in our budget now."

An obvious solution to the problem is the mutual aid agreement, a pact between fire departments in the Northwest suburbs to assist neighboring departments when necessary.

This would mean that every time there is a fire report in the buildings at River and Foundry roads, the Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, or Wheeling fire departments will have to answer the call. All of these departments are equipped with either an aerial or snorkel truck.

The Prospect Heights department was faced with a similar problem at one time with an apartment complex located west of Dale Road and north of Rand Road. However this taxable plot of land bordered the Arlington Heights fire district and that district annexed it.

THE FOREST RIVER department, on the other hand, has been adding territory rather than losing it. Just this spring, the district annexed the area north of Camp McDonald Road and south of Old Willow Road.

The problem facing both of the districts is how to secure the funds necessary to buy larger equipment to meet the needs of a more urbanized community.

If they can't, the Prospect Heights districts may be eaten away by the larger, better equipped fire districts that border them. And the neighboring fire districts may protest if Prospect Heights leans too heavily on their shoulders.

One solution is for the community to incorporate. Fire protection districts in unincorporated areas can collect only half as much tax money as can a village with a municipal fire department.

As it looks now, residents believe they can maintain the status quo and keep Prospect Heights a single-family, unincorporated community. I wish them luck, but wonder if they can stop the progress of urbanization.

The City Beat

People Can Bring Change

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

A too prevalent attitude today is the feeling that you can't fight "city hall." City hall can be defined as any large, powerful organization that seems remote from the people.

However, a few weeks ago a group of Rolling Meadows residents met in a garage to organize and find out if the power of the people can fight a powerful organization.

THE ISSUE IS night racing at Arlington Park race track, and residents opposed to it want to find out if a substantial protest will affect the decision of the racing commission in November.

To get a representative view of what people in Rolling Meadows think of night racing, the Jaycees stepped in and conducted a survey of the city. Other issues were included on the survey, to find out what residents think of matters affecting the city.

Their intent is to get a city-wide attitude on issues, and to find if the people have any objections or desires for the city of Rolling Meadows.

Besides the effort to find out what the people in the city are thinking, this survey has another importance. In days when people hear so much about apathy they're apathetic about even hearing the word mentioned, the efforts of a group to do something and get involved deserves credit.

IT'S GOOD TO see people who want to get involved and believe the wishes of the majority will prevail. This is real grass roots activity and as American as the Fourth of July. It's the story of the 'little guy, who in the face of monolithic government or private enterprise thinks the people united will prevail.

It's the kind of thing that operates on a shoe string and a lot of time and work. Time spent composing a survey, distributing it and then picking it up. Then all the opinions are compiled to see what the people are thinking.

And then, hopefully, the wishes of the majority have the impact to cause action resulting in the implementation of majority wants.

Activity like this deserves the support of the community, and all residents had to do was fill out the survey. Jaycees even went door to door to collect the surveys, making the people's opportunity to be heard very simple.

IF AN ENTERPRISE like this one can be successful and can show the people that government and business is responsive to their needs, a precedent could be set that encourages the people to make their opinions and their demands known.

The Rolling Meadows Jaycees deserve a lot of the credit for this undertaking. They are serving the community and helping to generate interest in the concerns of the city.

If the survey has helped to make resident aware of what is happening, and causes them to become interested, the work of the Jaycees will have accomplished a lot in getting representative government and helping to make the city what the residents want it to be.

Action like this may be what is needed to make the people aware, and make them realize the city will be what they want it, to be if they are willing to take the time to let city officials know what they want.

Job Makes Park History

by PAT GERLACH

After being in existence for five years, Hoffman Estates Park District seems to have experienced a subtle, but graceful, coming of age during 1969.

Despite a stormy infancy and adolescence, fraught with problems and complexities not all of its own making, finally, the park board, this year under the capable direction of Pres. Robert L. Schuhr, may very well have made history, at least in the state of Illinois.

NOTABLE AMONG PARK accomplishments recently is the purchase of Ida B. Vogelei Park and Community Recreation Center which is destined to become Hoffman Estates major park area.

Commendable also is the board's recent decision to hire a full time director of parks and recreation and the commissioners interest and willingness to assist Hoffman Estates Athletic Association is certainly laudable.

Over and above these things, the board may very well be making history in its creation of the advisory post of youth commissioner.

At the last board meeting, Schuhr unveiled the idea of establishing the honorary position and appointing a local high school student to the voluntary spot.

PRESENTLY, the park commissioners are interviewing from a list of students supplied them by Conant High School administrators.

Hopefully, a Conant senior will fill the post before the end of this month, but in years to come the youth commissioner will be named at the end of his junior year.

He will then be required to work with the park district the following summer and until graduation.

The student will confer with park directors on matters of interest and importance to the younger segment of the community and may also be assigned additional tasks by the commissioners.

Schuhr hopes in this manner to establish liaison with and provide a voice for teenagers in park affairs.

A SECONDARY motive for creation of the post is to stimulate interest in careers in the field of parks and recreation, a move which will undoubtedly be noticed by area colleges and universities.

In this manner, the high school student will not only be charged with the responsibility of representing his age group in thinking, interests and desires and helping the park district provide programs in tune with the times. He will also have an opportunity for first hand experience which might stimulate interest in a career.

Apparently the idea could well be a first — since a small amount of research has failed to reveal the existence of a similar post in any other Illinois park district.

CONSIDERING THE trials and tribulations suffered by the park district during my four year association with it, I am inclined to feel they deserve much credit for the innovative idea.

I can only hope that perhaps this will begin to come when the Illinois Association of Park Districts meets in Springfield later this month.

I know, too, that our many teenagers will have a much needed voice in their park district.

Crane Win Grassroots Victory of People

The recent primary victory by Philip M. Crane, making him the Republican candidate for 13th District congressman, is more than victory of one particular candidate or philosophy. It is a victory for the grassroots Republicans who were concerned about their voice in the party.

Before the primary came into full swing, it was common knowledge that the Republican committeemen of the western townships would meet and pick a candidate that they would then all endorse. However, the Palatine Township Organization bolted that agreement and due to large scale concern over who would elect our next congressman, endorsed Philip M. Crane. Palatine Township proved itself to be truly Republican by rejecting the strategy of political bossism and behind the scene deals. It proved itself to be more concerned about the entire district, rather than a special area of it. Palatine Township chose to support the candidate who best represented the views of the majority of Republicans, and by doing so, insured that the party would remain to be, of, by, and for the people.

THE COMMITTEEMEN of Elk Grove, Northfield and Schaumburg townships attempted to shove the politicians man, Samuel Young, down the throats of the people in the western end of the district. These committeemen hoped to be the king-makers who would name our next Congressman. A funny thing happened on the way to Washington; the Republican voters flatly rejected this bold attempt at GOP bossism. In Elk Grove Hansen couldn't even deliver his own township, which went to Crane; Totten in Schaumburg didn't even deliver 50 per cent and in Sam Young's own Northfield Township, 45 per cent of the vote was too much to ask. Palatine Township again proved to be backing the man the Republicans of the 13th District wanted, as they did in 1962 when they alone backed Don Rumsfeld, and gave a sweeping 2,500 votes to Philip M. Crane.

Phil Crane's nomination will be followed by a decisive victory on Nov. 25, and his term in office will be written in history characterized by one word, action.

Robert L. Bergman

'Obviously Great'

We Republicans just had a tough congressional primary fight, and I supported the same man that Paddock Publications endorsed, Alan Johnston.

Johnston is a great man, we are agreed. Phil Crane has been endorsed by the Republican Party and Crane is obviously also a great man.

I ask all people who helped me in this primary to support and vote for Phil Crane.

William L. Griffin

Wheeling Township

Parents, Keep an Oar In

Thanks for your generous support in the past election for park commissioner to the interested parents of Buffalo Grove.

May I suggest that your interest not lag from this point on as although I am sure the people who were elected are dedicated and naturally have the best interests of the community and particularly the youth of the area at heart, it behooves us as parents to keep an unjaundiced eye on how things are progressing.

FOR EXAMPLE I WAS told by people who should know that three loads of sand were ordered to be delivered to the Kilmer playground for use on the diamonds but were never delivered. I do hope they were not paid for. This was last June.

It was also said that the fields were to be torn up and tiled to be made more playable due to better drainage. This of course was not done. Now I am told that things will have to go slow because of lack of money and was informed that the field was not too bad last year and that possibly nothing would be done, this year, this statement coming from no less an authority than one of our new commissioners. Just for openers, commissioner, did you enjoy the cesspool of mosquitoes while watching the games? Remember my friend it costs $3,500 a year to keep a boy in an institution and whether you want to think about it or not you are paying for a part of the freight. It might be necessary (and I am not too sure about that to go slow on the new parks) but every year another group of teenagers are coming up so let's get with it and get our present facilities in good shape. I do hope some pearls of wisdom will be forthcoming from the powers that be as I have not had an answer to my questions and requests to this date that were published in the paper last summer on this same subject and directed to the president of the village. I am interested in seeing that the potential broken bones are kept to a minimum by having top flight ball grounds.

The National School Lunch Program

Its Aim: Getting Better Meals to More Children

by JEANNE LESEM
NEW YORK (UPI) — The National School Lunch Program now feeds about half the United States' 52-million pupils daily in schools from Broken Arrow, Okla., to Pitkas Point, Alaska.

That's not enough to satisfy Helen McGee, new president of the American School Food Service Association. She and other members of the nonprofit professional organization want all American school children to benefit from the program to provide nutritionally balanced lunches at low cost or no cost. Free or reduced-price meals are provided needy children without revealing their identities to their classmates.

In an interview, Mrs. McGee said the primary aim of her association is getting better meals to more children. The group — which represents about 48,000 school food service personnel — also upgrades school lunch room personnel and conducts training programs for them.

SCHOOLS PARTICIPATING in the nonprofit lunch program — which Congress established in 1946 — receive some foods and some funds from the federal government. Each school plans its own menus, which must include specified amounts of certain food categories designed to provide at least one-third of the daily nutritional needs of growing children.

The first step is persuading parents and school district officials of the need. Then you must win over the children.

Mrs. McGee indicated they're just as interested as adults are in good food, attractively served, and in pleasant atmosphere and companionship.

As food service director for 22 schools in Midwest City, Okla., she constantly seeks new ways to please the children while meeting their nutritional needs.

"IN SECONDARY schools, we work with student councils to see what they want. We're not going to feed kids hash and meat loaf.

"We offer a choice of two plate lunches. If a high school student goes out to lunch, he may have a hamburger, a hot dog or barbecue on a bun. So we feature one of these with a salad, vegetable and dessert, on one lunch line. The other line will have something like chicken pie or roast beef.

"We serve what's currently being eaten around town at drive-ins — but we put a lot more meat on our pizza and in our taco-burgers and taco-dogs.

"Kids notice the difference. Our prices are lower, too."

The tall, attractive grandmother added that she doesn't try to teach high school students to eat new foods.

"Their food habits are pretty well established. If you want them to eat in your lunchroom, you serve what they like."

With smaller children, you try to establish good eating habits, Mrs. McGee added, but teachers and lunchroom personnel have to realize that not all children the same age have the same appetite.

She said at least one Oklahoma elementary school has a Clean Plate Club that gives each pupil a choice of small, medium or large servings, and admission to an after-school movie — never announced in advance — if he's cleaned his plate on movie day.

Teaching teachers helps recruit children for the lunch program, she said. The Broken Arrow school upped its lunch attendance by 15 per cent within two years after introducing special nutrition instruction for the faculty. The course is being opened to parents this fall — at their request.

"YOU HAVE TO merchandise lunch to children — make the food and serving lines attractive. On St. Patrick's Day, have green frosting on the cake. One school makes seasonal table centerpieces. Another uses gilded track shoes and other sports emblems for wall decorations. Some have piped-in music."

"But don't get too fancy," she cautioned, adding that "acceptability of lettuce type salads and fresh spinach is growing nationwide, even among little folks."

She credits morning tasting parties of unfamiliar foods with interesting the small fry in new flavor and textures. They get a little history and growing information with the snacks.

If this approach doesn't get them, watching their peers may, said Mrs. McGee.

"FOR MANY CHILDREN, eating at school is the first experience in eating out. They get a feeling of security and belonging when they sit down with their peers."

Improved eating habits improve health, study habits, grades, attendance and behavior, said Mrs. McGee. She added that the Pitkas Point elementary school's 10 pupils showed a collective weight gain of 77 pounds during the first four months they participated in the lunch program, compared with 14 pounds for the four months preceding the program.

For mothers, school lunches provide a fringe benefit. They're freed from packing lunches or serving children a midday meal at home. With so many working mothers today in many communities, this is no small benefit.

Hello Hostess

Beat the High Cost of Giving

by MARY KAY MARSH

A wise man once said, "There is no such thing as a free lunch." And, at today's food prices, he was absolutely right!

But there are other items that are free, or almost free, with many of your groceries. We're referring, of course, to the premiums that American manufacturers offer you as an inducement to try their products.

If you're trying to buy this year's Christmas gifts on last year's budget, do check your supermarket's bulletin board. Most premiums offer good quality and value. And most were priced some weeks ago, so they're still a bit below today's higher prices. You'll find, too, a wide variety, suitable for every age and just about every gift-giving occasion. Many premiums are inexpensive enough to use for prizes and favors when you entertain. Others are grand enough to give for the most extra-special special event.

THINK MINK! Last year, for instance, a meat sauce manufacturer offered a $400 mink stole for one label and $200. We easily acquired the label, but never quite managed the $200! Most premiums, of course, require considerably less cash. Our own favorites range from a slotted serving spoon, ordered some years ago for a couple of cereal box tops and 50 cents, to a camera which cost $5.95 plus an instant coffee label. We also enjoy a magnetized pop art photo holder, received as a favor at a kitchen shower last spring. The hostess confided that she obtained these free by sending in an assortment of soup labels.

Order early if you find a premium that you want. In fact, order NOW. Delivery usually takes three or four weeks, so you'll need to add a bit of patience to the price of the item.

FOR MORE INSTANT GIVING: look around for other present or prize possibilities attached to products; designed to give shelf appeal at point-of-purchase. We just unpacked three with this week's groceries. One is a vinyl pencil case shaped like a big pencil, slated to become a stocking stuffer for our first-grader. Another is an attractive apothecary jar which now holds a popular breakfast drink powder. Come Christmas, we'll fill it with homemade candy as a little gift for a "sweet" neighbor. The final bonus is a plastic flying saucer containing several packages of a favorite soft drink mix. Since our four thirsty children and their even thirstier friends drink this by the gallon, we plan to acquire eight of these saucers to use as favors at a birthday boy's space party in November.

A final word: So browse around a bit the next time you buy groceries. We'll bet you find several interesting possibilities to help you beat the high cost of giving — not only at Christmas, but also all through the year.

FROM THE GAME ROOM: Speaking of the boy's space party reminds us of "The Space Walk," which was a popular attraction at amusement parks we visited on vacation. "The Space Walk" was several giant air mattresses, inflated so that the kids bounced along as they walked. For a similar effect, you could line up all the family air mattresses and plastic floats in your front hall or garage, requiring guests to "Walk in Space" as they bounce back to your party room.

TABLE TALK: With space so popular a topic of the day, you might like to think about these lines from Michel Guéhenin's book, "The Cosmic Clocks": "Space travel did not begin with the first astronaut; we have always been traveling in a spaceship... by now we all know that our spaceship, the earth, hurtles unceasingly through interstellar space." And we hope that you're having a wonderful trip!

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

If you happen to visit Victoria, British Columbia, take a tip from me and try breakfast at The George Inn on Broughton Street where food is excellent and atmosphere charming.

It's a small English tearoom setting supervised by Peter and Myra Lapinvo. The coddled eggs served individually were excellent, but what hit my appetite were home baked crumpets and scones.

Crumpets are as English as tea in the afternoon. To make 12, peel and quarter a good sized potato. Boil in 1 1/2 cups salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and reserve the potato water. Mash the potato. Dissolve 2 envelopes dry yeast and 1 teaspoon sugar in 1/2 cup warm potato water.

Let stand for 10 minutes until bubbly. Add the remaining potato water and 1 teaspoon salt. Work in the mashed potato and sifted flour (about 2 1/2 cups) to make a heavy batter. Cover, and let rise for 30 minutes in a warm place.

BEAT RAPIDLY for 5 minutes with a wooden spoon. Again cover and let rise for 30 minutes. Repeat the beating and the rising twice more at 30-minute intervals. Grease the insides of muffin rings.

Heat a griddle, grease it lightly and keep at a low, even heat. Place muffin rings around the sides of the griddle and half fill with batter. Bake about 15 minutes. The batter will rise as it bakes. Turn and bake 5 minutes on the other side.

Before serving spread the rough (with holes) sides generously with butter and toast under the broiler. Delicious with preserves.

Scones are more related to Scotland and Northern England. The Scots gave them credit for bringing beauty to the skin and sweetness to the temper. The following is an English recipe, however, nick-named Singing Hinnies because of the way they supposedly sizzled when cooked over an open fire.

SIFT 2 1/2 CUPS FLOUR. Dredge 1/2 cup currants, (or raisins) in tablespoon of the flour. Resift remaining flour with 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon baking soda.

Cut in 1/3 cup butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Mix 1 beaten egg with 1 tablespoon water and add to flour along with the currants, 1/2 cup sour cream, 3 tablespoons orange juice and 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Mix well then divide the dough into 24 balls. Flatten to 1/2-inch round cakes. Bake on a greased cookie sheet in a pre-heated 425 degrees oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown.

Vegetables of almost every variety are grown by Mrs. Donald W. Volkman of 452 Lauren, Buffalo Grove, and she eats many of them for use throughout the year.

One of the few vegetables not included in her extensive garden is cabbage, and this she uses to make one of her specialties, a tasty Apple-Pineapple Cole Slaw.

An unusual sweet slaw, it combines shredded cabbage with pineapple tidbits, apples, marshmallows and celery. Regular mayonnaise is used as the dressing.

The flavors blend together nicely and this cole slaw has a crisp and crunchy texture.

"I make it whenever I'm in the mood for it," Pat Volkman exclaimed, "as it goes well with almost any meal." She particularly recommends it as an accompaniment for pork chops, ham and hamburgers.

WHEN PRUNE PLUMS are in season, this good cook likes to treat her husband, Don, to one of his favorites, an appealing Plum Cake.

His mother always made this cake, and although the recipe was never written down, she told Pat the method.

Easy to prepare, this basic dough is made from a packaged hot roll mix and spread in a cookie sheet. After the dough has risen, it is covered with prune-plum halves and sprinkled with cinnamon and sugar. Melted butter is dribbled over the top.

Baked for a mere 20 minutes, the dough is cake-like in texture, while the plum topping gives it a delicious flavor.

"This may be served for breakfast or as a dessert," Pat said, "and it is nice for coffee parties, too."

UNLIKE SOME FRUIT cakes that must be eaten immediately, this one tastes just as good the second day. It makes a big hit with the Volkman's five children: Danny, 8; Nancy, 6; Timmy, 4; Cindy, 2 1/2; and Paul, 17 months old.

Pat's green thumb does not restrict itself to outdoor gardening. She enjoys growing a variety of indoor plants, too, and has over 20 African violets. In addition, this ambitious gardener, homemaker and mother of five, is teaching herself to play the electric organ in her spare time!

APPLE-PINEAPPLE COLE SLAW

3 cups shredded crisp white cabbage
1 9-ounce can (1 cup) pineapple tidbits, drained
1 cup diced, unpared apples
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1/2 cup mayonnaise
Combine the above, tossing until mayonnaise coats all ingredients. Chill in refrigerator.

Serve in a lettuce-lined bowl and trim with apple wedges. Serves 4 to 6.

PLUM CAKE

1 package Pillsbury Hot Roll Mix
26 to 30 prune-plums
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 pound butter, melted
Prepare hot roll mix according to package directions. Pat dough into a greased cookie sheet, 12 by 18-inches. Let rise in a warm place for a half hour.

Cut prune-plums in half and remove stones. Place plum halves on top of dough, cut-side up. Mix together the sugar, flour and cinnamon and sprinkle over the top. Dribble with melted butter.

Bake at 375 degrees until done and prune-plums are soft, about 20 minutes or more.

You Want To Be a Bake-Off Winner?

If you've been thinking seriously about entering the Pillsbury Bake-Off this year but haven't acted yet, you have just one month left to make a decision. The deadline for submitting an entry is Nov. 15.

The site for this 21st annual Bake-Off is reason enough for wanting to enter this national cooking contest. It's being held at the picturesque Hotel Del Coronado, a stately Victorian hotel on Coronado Island across the bay from San Diego, California's southernmost city which now is observing its 200th birthday.

The 80-year-old hotel is one of the largest wooden structures in America and holds a treasure of antiques and carved woodwork.

BUT THE prizes are something, too. Champions will be named in three divisions — convenience mix, flour and refrigerated dough, 8 each worth $10,000. In addition, one of the three will be awarded another $15,000 as "Best of the Bake-Off."

Along with the winners a runner-up in each division receives $2,000. A $1,000 bright idea prize goes to one cook in each of the three divisions.

Even before they leave for the Bake-Off itself, each of the finalists has already won from General Electric an oven-range, and if their entry is certified by a GE dealer, a special appliance prize.

Their trip is paid for plus each finalist gets $100 in cash.

THIS WILL be the first year that contest rules will permit using artificial sweeteners. Either a half cup of Pillsbury Sprinkle Sweet or one tablespoon of Pillsbury Sweet-10 may be used in a recipe entered in the convenience mix division.

"A 'How to Win Bake-Off' booklet with tips on preparing a winning entry is available by writing Bake-Off Entry Kit, Box 699, Dept. 11, Minneapolis, Minn. 55460.

Contestants will not be required to submit an official entry blank with their recipe. They may obtain the entry rules and blanks by writing to Pillsbury, Box 679, Dept. 110, Minneapolis 55460. The rules and blanks also are available in the refrigerated dough section of the dairy case in food stores, in all Pillsbury flour sacks of five pounds or more or in the section where Pillsbury convenience mixes are sold.

ENTRIES WILL be accepted until Nov. 15, 1969, at Pillsbury Bake-Off, Box 409, Minneapolis 55460.

Here are two recipes that illustrate three of the factors in Bake-Off judging — quality, convenience and creativity.

FUDGE-FUDGE PUDDING CAKE

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 package (17 1/2 oz.) Pillsbury Fudge Batter Cake Mix
1 1/3 cups boiling water
1/2 cup chopped walnuts, if desired
1 package (12 1/2 oz.) Pillsbury

Buttercream Fudge or Walnut Fudge Frosting Mix

2 1/2 cups boiling water
Melt butter in 13x9-inch pan in oven. Remove from oven; add cake mix and 1 1/3 cups boiling water. Stir with fork until smooth. Spread evenly in pan. Sprinkle with walnuts. Sprinkle dry frosting mix over all. Gently pour the remaining 2 1/2 cups boiling water over frosting mix. Bake at 350 degrees (F) for 30 to 35 minutes, until crust in shiny and cake starts to pull away from sides of pan. Serve warm, saucy side up, with sweetened whipped cream.

PIZZA CUPS

3/4 lb. ground beef
1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1/2 to 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning or

1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon each leaf basil and leaf oregano
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 can Pillsbury Refrigerated Tender-flake or Tenderburst Biscuits
1/2 cup shredded mozzarella cheese

In large skillet, brown ground beef; drain. Add tomato paste, onion and seasonings. Simmer, uncovered, stirring frequently, for 5 minutes. Set aside.

Separate biscuit dough into biscuits. Place each biscuit in an ungreased muffin cup, pressing dough up sides to edge of cup. Spoon meat mixture into cups. Sprinkle each with cheese. Bake at 400 degrees (F) for 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown.

Tip: To make ahead, prepare, cover and refrigerate up to 2 to 3 hours; bake at 400 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

A New Cook Book

Fall and winter seasons bring frequent family gatherings and make special meals more important. Whether you're expecting guests or would just like to make your family meal a special occasion, you'll find many menu planning aids in Pillsbury Publications' series of five hard-bound Bake-Off Cook Books. These recipe collections bring together the best recipes from Pillsbury's annual, national cooking contests which were begun in 1949.

The most recent book, Pillsbury's Bake-Off Cake Cook Book, contains recipes ranging from good and easy cakes to family favorites, cake along cakes and simply special cakes. Nutmeg Delight is indeed a very special cake with its nutmeg flavor and aroma plus rum and whipped cream in the frosting, creating an eggnog mood. Yet this cake is also easy to prepare as is typical of the updated recipes found throughout the series.

Many of the cake recipes in the book are especially geared to casual family settings and between meal snacks with frostings quick-to-make, not-so-sweet and sometimes no frostings at all. The cake cook book also features many decorating tips, gives ingredient amounts for square, oblong and layer cakes and suggests numerous beverage recipes to serve with cake snacks.

NUTMEG DELIGHT CAKE

2 cups Pillsbury All Purpose Flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
4 teaspoons nutmeg

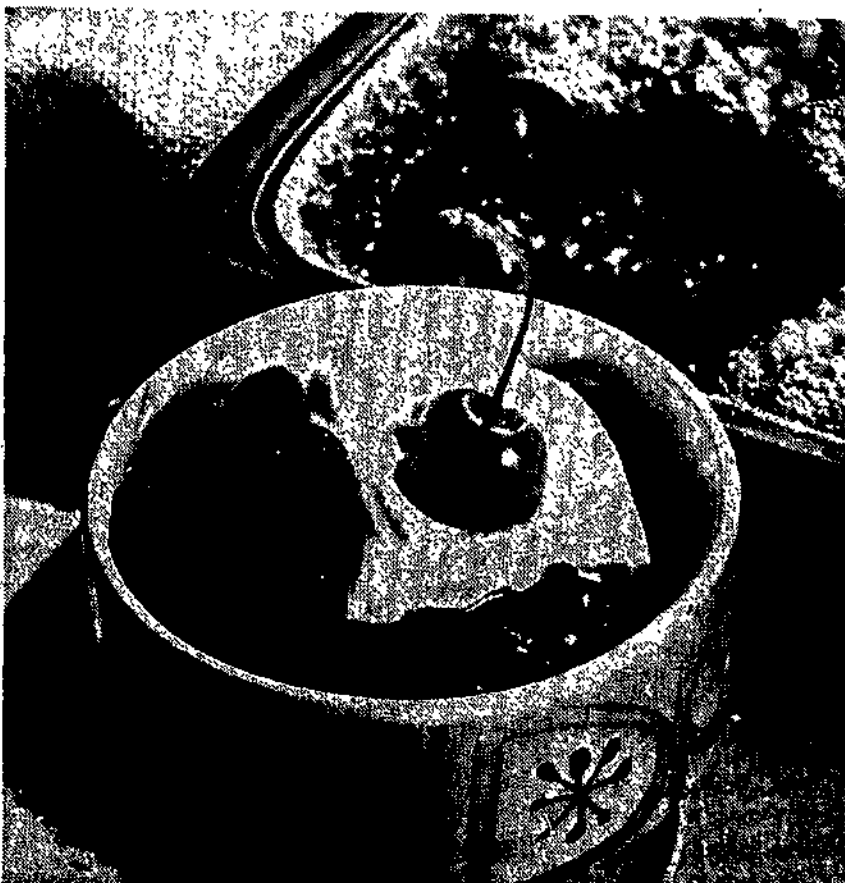

1 teaspoon vanilla or rum flavoring
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
3 eggs
Whipped Cream Frosting
1 package Pillsbury One Layer Size Buttercream Vanilla Frosting Mix
1 cup (1/2 pt.) whipping cream
1/4 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon rum flavoring, if desired

Generously grease and lightly flour two 9-inch round layer pans. In large mixer bowl, combine all ingredients except frosting. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally. Pour batter into prepared pans, spreading to edges. Bake at 350 degrees (F) for 25 to 30 minutes until top springs back when touched lightly in center. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pans. Cool completely. Frost with Whipped Cream Frosting. Chill until served.

Whipped Cream Frosting: In small mixer bowl, combine all ingredients. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat at medium speed until thickened, scraping bowl occasionally.

Tip: Cake may be baked in two 8-inch round layer pans or 13 x 9-inch pan for 30 to 35 minutes. Treat layer pans as directed; grease bottom only of 13 x 9-inch pan.

The hard-cover Pillsbury "Bake-Off Cake Cook Book" is available at local grocery stores, newsstands or by mail order from Pillsbury. It may be ordered directly from Pillsbury by sending check or money order to The Pillsbury Co., Box 90, Minneapolis, Minn. 55460.

Mary Swaby, Groom, at Iowa State

Iowa State University seniors, Mary K. Swaby and Floyd C. Henderson, were married Sept. 6 in Arlington Heights and are now making their home in Ames, Iowa, where the university is located. Daughter of the C. W. Swabys, 202 W. South St., Arlington Heights, the bride is majoring in child development, and the groom, son of the Ben L. Hendersons of Charlotte, N. C., is majoring in chemical engineering.

The pair were married in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights by Dr. Paul L. Stumpf. White tapers and baskets of white gladioli and yellow mums decorated the altar for the 1 p.m. candlelight, double ring service.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, wore a silk organza gown in ivory with peau de ange lace bodice and bishop sleeves, and a cameo necklace. Her chapel-length train was edged with a border of matching lace, and a petal spray of alencon lace flowers with pearls held her triple veil of ivory silk illusion. Her flowers were a crescent of yellow roses, white daisies and stephanotis.

Linda Reimier of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a sorority sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Rolfe Banta of Arlington Heights and Colleen Stivers of Des Moines, Iowa, another sorority sister, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were in light blue sheer organza over matching underskirts. Their headpieces were bands of yellow and white daisies, and they carried bouquets of yellow and white daisies.

Mary's second cousin, 5-year-old Tina Copland of Arlington Heights, served as flower girl. Her floor-length gown was also in light blue, and her head band was also of yellow and white daisies. Her flowers were carried in a white basket. Floyd's nephew, Greg Proffit of Charlotte, 4, was ring bearer.

A FRATERNITY brother of the groom, Richard Bartek of Mankato, Minn., served as best man. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Bill and Allan Swaby of Arlington Heights, Kip Parkhurst of Manchester, Iowa, and Tony Horvath, another fraternity brother, from Fords, N. J.

The luncheon reception for 200 guests was held at the Horseshoe Club at Arlington Towers. Mrs. Swaby received the guests in a mint green dress and coat ensemble, and Mrs. Henderson received in a cream colored knit dress with tangerine corsage. Mrs. Swaby's corsage was of white garnet roses.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Wisconsin and are now making their home at 133 F University Village in Ames.

Mrs. Floyd C. Henderson

Rolling Meadows Junior Woman's Club will celebrate its birthday with a 15th anniversary dinner dance Saturday, commencing with cocktails at 7:30 p.m. in the roundable room of the Arlington Park Towers.

Featured entertainer will be Al Koran, professionally known as The Mystic Marvel, along with the music of the James Bestman orchestra.

Koran's act is a mixture of purely visual mysticism combined with mind-reading and mentalism. He became a member of the magician's club at 15 and within a year, won its gold medal. He has appeared before Her Highness, Princess Grace of Monaco.

Those interested in attending may obtain ticket information from club members or dinner dance chairman Mrs. Ronald Rakstang at 250-1358.

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS of thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Harper Draws 500 to Forum For Moratorium

Section 1, Page 7

THE REV. PAUL Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, speaks out against Dist. 21 school sex education programs. See story on Page 6.

HARPER JUNIOR COLLEGE held an all-day forum as their part in the nationwide Vietnam Moratorium. Speaking for the war is Dr. Philip Bennett of

Rev. Paul Lindstrom's Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights. The program was in the college's lounge area. (See story on page 7.)

Local Moratorium Response Is Calm

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers on the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's

Parents To Help In Course Plans

Parents of Dist. 54 pupils will have the opportunity to take part in curriculum planning in the elementary district in the future.

Following the recommendation of the Dist. 54 Community Relations Study Group, the school board of Dist. 54 has endorsed parent participation in curriculum planning projects.

R. Kim Driggers, program development coordinator for Dist. 54, is responsible for bringing parents and teachers together once a schedule of curriculum meetings has been finalized.

Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible said, "People will accept and will underwrite something they understand thoroughly and which they have had a hand in building."

"If parents are invited to attend committee meetings in all areas of the curriculum, they will appreciate more fully the effort and brain power being employed daily by teachers, consultants and administrators to improve the pupil's educational experience," Schaible added.

Mrs. Eleanor Thorsen, chairman of the Community Relations Study Group, is considered to reflect recent trends in education to combine the talents of professionals and laymen in school programs.

She is a full-time teacher, parent, and board of education member.

3 Major Projects Race First Freeze

Before the winter freeze comes, at least three major multiple-family developments in Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates should be under way.

Tuesday the Schaumburg Village Board approved Phase I of the Woodlake Apartments that the McCormick Co. will build near Algonquin and Meacham roads.

Earlier during the board meeting, Levitt and Sons received approval to build three townhouse models for what will be Sheffield Town between Golf and Bode roads.

MONDAY THE Hoffman Estates Village Board approved Phase I of the Peter Robin development that will be located south of Higgins Road and west of extended Springinguth Road.

Representatives of the three projects told both boards that they plan to begin underground work soon, before the ground freezes, so construction can continue this winter.

The three represent the first of the giant plan development, multiple-family projects to begin this building season.

McCormick Pres. William J. Walsh told trustees that Phase I will include 254 units. Ground will be broken about Nov. 1, he said. The units will be along Algonquin Road. The project is being financed through Hancock Insurance and a Pittsburgh bank. The general contractor is Pepper Construction, who is also building the Marshall Field store in Woodfield Mall.

"WE'VE REVIEWED pounds of plans. Everything is in order with a few minor changes that they're making," Edwin Denman, public works director, said.

Woodlake will have 3,000 apartment units, built over a 10-year period, and a projected population of 7,500. The final phase is scheduled to include office space, a motor inn and a neighborhood shopping center.

"We're happy to be back after what happened to the money market this summer," Walsh said.

A master plan for Sheffield Town has not been completed, and Schaumburg trustees were reluctant to give any approvals.

Charles Wolfe, Levitt engineer, said the plan will be ready within 60 days. Levitt owns about 800 acres in western Schaumburg and will build in excess of 5,000 living units, including single-family homes, the townhouses and apartments.

TRUSTEES VOTED to allow Levitt to go ahead with three townhouse models and a recreation center. Wolfe said the models will be ready by spring.

Sheffield Park, the single-family section, opened last spring. The townhouses, which will be sold, will not total more than 15 per cent of the project. The number of three- and four-bedroom townhouses are also restricted.

Except for the models, townhouse units cannot be built until site plans have been approved. Levitt's total multi-development is restricted to 3,500 units.

The initial phase of the Robin development will be 460 apartment units. A maximum of 6,800 units can be built over a 10-year period on the 400 acres. The completed development is expected to add 16,000 persons to Hoffman Estates.

In action relating to apartment developments, the Schaumburg Village Board referred a proposed amendment to zoning ordinance to increase required parking spaces in multi unit projects to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a hearing.

Ted W. Anderson, plans commission chairman, said two spaces should be provided per unit. The present requirement is 1.5. Mayor Robert O. Atcher said if the amendment is approved, it can't be retroactive to plans previously approved.

Fast-Draw Artist Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

'Consumerism' Hits

Union Tours Store

An inspection of a large Hoffman Estates chain food store was held recently by the Northwest Chapter of the National Consumers' Union (NCU).

The inspection was the first activity of its kind in Schaumburg Township. During their visit NCU members found management at the food store to be cooperative.

They also found dairy products on display that were beyond shelf life, and produce that was unprotected and covered with flies.

On request by the inspection team, meats that were obviously old were removed by the store management.

BREAKFAST CEREALS and baked items were also spotted that were beyond shelf life and refrigerated ready-to-bake pastries were not all stamped with shelf-life dates.

Making the inspection as concerned citizens were Burrill Black, Bette Gray and Marian Skinner of Hoffman Estates.

The purpose of the consumer union is to see that fresh and safe products are sold at reasonable prices by retailers in the area. Membership is drawn from throughout the Northwest suburbs. There are now nearly 80 persons associated with NCU from the area. A membership campaign has begun to draw more persons from Schaumburg Township.

According to Mrs. Black, an NCU board member, the food store inspected was generally clean, but cluttered.

THERE WAS NO FIRE protection sprinkler in the store area, but the manager said a system was installed in the storeroom.

Mrs. Black questioned which was more important, the products or the customers? She also suggested that produce bins be encased to protect the merchandise and still allow shoppers to examine their fruits and vegetables prior to purchase.

"Some meats were obviously old, but were removed on request," she said. "We found some moldy sausage and old pork."

Food stores are the first businesses the NCU is screening. The organization's purpose is to unite the consumer into a strength-in-numbers body. The union feels that business has become too impersonalized in today's society.

IN ITS STATEMENT of purpose, NCU says business axioms of "supply and demand" and "the customer is always right" have been replaced with mass advertising which creates false markets. NCU feels the markets today do not cater to the tastes, habits and desires of the buying public.

Mrs. Black has said that consumer boycotts of uncooperative businesses could evolve if union strength grows enough, but such action will result only if reasonable demands are not met.

Following the local membership drive, planned within the next three weeks, NCU will continue to visit local food markets. Repeat visits to assure grievances are met also will take place.

OK 80-Foot Antennas

Antenna towers up to 80 feet tall will be permitted in Schaumburg under special use zoning for Federal Communications Commission licensed amateur radio operators and volunteers serving in local disaster units such as Civil Defense.

Tuesday the village board concurred with the recommendation of the zoning board of appeals to put the towers under special use zoning.

The ordinance will not include television antennas. Schaumburg presently has no ordinance controlling the heights of antennas.

Trustees also concurred with a ZBA recommendation to zone six acres a half mile east of Roselle Road on Golf Road for business. Chrysler Realty Co. plans to build a Plymouth auto agency there.

THE BOARD APPROVED an amendment to the liquor ordinance adding another Class F, beer and wine, license. The request came from Barnaby's, Inc., which will locate on Golf Road.

The board also conveyed property titles to School Dist. 54 and the park district at the Jane Addams Junior High. This is the first property the park district will own outright.

Title to park lands is now held by the village. The park district has 20 year leases on the properties.

An ordinance was passed allowing residents to use plastic bags for garbage. Mayor Robert O. Atcher said, "This is a permissive ordinance. The plastic bags may be used in lieu of metal cans." The ordinance stipulates that the plastic bags must be waterproof and securely closed.

THE MAYOR appointed Trustee Gordon Mullins to a committee that will have representatives from Hanover Park and Hoffman Estates to do a study on finding a location for a teen center that the Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth would operate.

Four Timbercrest residents will serve on a committee to plan a park site in that subdivision: Morwell Builders has donated $20,000 for development of the park. The residents are Tom Teschner, Ron DeBaum, Judy Hum and Bob Sanders.

Village Clerk Sandy Carsello said the village received a check for $8,978 from the state income tax credit returned to municipalities. The periodic rebates will total about $7 per resident per year, Atty. Jack Siegel said. Municipalities have no restrictions on how the money is used.

GRAY PROGRAM of Twinbrook YMCA for boys in grades four to six was explained to fathers in the Highpoint area Monday night. The activity program for the intermediate grades will be organized initially at MacArthur, Hillcrest and Churchill schools. Later, the Gray program will be expanded to other areas. Phil Southworth, 522 Glenlake Road, program chairman, addressed the gathering.

Masks of Death Make Peace Pleas

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground. Another man slammed a train window down in the face of a protester shouting to him from below.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splashed with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war..."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Patrick Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think about war," he said, "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dungarees between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs.

Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

"Stop the war," the students said. "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

Whamond Is At Conant

Robert Whamond, former principal of Dwight High School, in Dwight, Ill., has been named assistant principal at Conant High School.

Whamond replaces Carl Zdeb, who is now principal at Conant.

One of three assistant principals at Conant, Whamond received his bachelor and master of science in education from Illinois State University in Normal, Ill. He has completed coursework for a certificate of advanced study at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, Ill.

Before coming to Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211 Whamond was social studies chairman and a varsity athletic coach in Dist. 300, Carpentersville, Ill. He was also an assistant principal in Dist. 300.

Whamond is a member of the National and Illinois Associations of Secondary School Principals, the National Education Association, and the Illinois Education Association.

He and his wife, Mary Jean, have a daughter, Vicki Lynn, in seventh grade.

Sewer Extension Study OK'd

The Schaumburg Village Board authorized the village consultant engineering firm, Suhr, Peterson, Peterson and Suhr, to make a preliminary study for extending sewer improvements in the Pleasant Acre subdivision extending between Schaumburg Road and Thacker, just off Roselle Road.

This is the area that includes Schaumburg Township Library. The area was annexed to the village last year.

The area has a flooding problem that storm sewers could alleviate. "The improvements would have to be made through special assessments," Village

Pres. Robert O. Atcher said. THE MAYOR SAID he is meeting with representatives of the H. W. Lockner firm which is conducting a traffic study for Schaumburg.

The study should be completed by early 1971. The board approved paying $5,873 for 22 per cent of the work completed. The total price of the survey is $26,000. Edwin Denman, public works director, said trustees could request a progress report from a Lockner representative at any board meeting.

Denman told trustees that plans and specifications for a new public works building should be ready for bids within two weeks. Trustees approved paying $4,200 to Meland, Hanrath and Associates, Inc., of Des Plaines, architects for the project.

THE BUILDING IS estimated to cost $280,000. Contracts won't be let until next year, Denman said. It will be located by the village sewage treatment plant. The method of financing the building hasn't been determined, Atcher said.

Denman told trustees that sludge has been removed from the Timbercrest sewage treatment lagoon in compliance with an order from the Metropolitan Sanitary District. The cost was $5,924.

A temporary package sewage treatment plant will be in operation by the end of this week at the Timbercrest treatment plant, Denman said. The temporary plant is being installed by the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

Dr. Lew To Speak at Bethel

Dr. Ben David Lew, director of Israel's evangelistic missions, will speak at Bethel Baptist Church in Schaumburg Township Sunday.

The church is on the corner of Roselle Road and Library Lane. The guest speaker will address the congregation at 9:45 and 11 a.m. and at 3 and 7 p.m. Anyone interested is invited.

Dr. Lew was born in Riki, Poland, to parents of the Orthodox Jewish Faith. His parents and three younger brothers died in Hitler's gas chambers at Treblinka in 1942.

Dr. Lew and a brother escaped the gas chambers only to spend the next few years in concentration camps, among them the infamous Buchenwald. During his camp imprisonment, Lew has said he dug his own grave 10 times.

All's Quiet In Dist. 211

Nothing unusual happened in Palatine, Fremd and Conant high schools yesterday.

During the national Vietnam moratorium which prompted absenteeism on campuses throughout the country, attendance in Palatine-Schaumburg Dist. 211 schools tended to be higher than normal yesterday.

"Our absentee list was less yesterday than it was Tuesday," said Carl Weiner, Fremd High School principal.

Fremd and Palatine high schools had full teacher attendance yesterday.

"I think students did an exceptionally fine job in conducting school today," said Carl Zdeb Conant High School principal. "They showed dignity, respect and pride in the things they did and should be commended for it."

St. Hubert's Church Sets 'Witches Whirl'

"Witches Whirl" will be the theme for the first parish Halloween Dance of St. Hubert's Catholic Church, Hoffman Estates Oct. 25 in the church auditorium.

Tickets are $3 a couple with proceeds going towards acoustical tile for the church auditorium. Costumes are optional, but prizes will be given for the best costumes.

"The Proper Strangers" will provide dance music. For reservations, call Mrs. Gary Yarwood, 529-4853 or Mrs. Bruce Harvey, 529-0516.

Dist. 54 To Vote On New Member

The Dist. 54 Board of Education will appoint a new board member to fill a vacancy today at the 8 p.m. meeting in Helen Keller Junior High.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Donald W. Ruby last month. The person to be named to the board Thursday will be someone recommended by the Dist. 54 community relations study group.

Ruby resigned from the board due to demands on his time with his job. Board member Elmer Linden has succeeded Ruby as chairman of the school board policy committee. Linden also replaced Ruby on the Hoffman Estates Planning Commission when Ruby resigned from that body.

Little League Field Planned

Land immediately east of Hillcrest School will probably be turned into a Little League baseball field designed to meet national standards, Hoffman Estates park directors learned last week.

Reporting at the board meeting, Bernard M. Bartosch, park vice president, explained that he recently toured land adjacent to all Dist. 54 schools within the village along with school officials and representatives of Hoffman Estates Athletic Association (HEAA).

CURRENTLY, a park-school lease agreement approved by Dist. 54 and the park district two years ago is under revision, he said.

In line with suggested plans, vacant land adjacent to schools may be deeded to the park district, although some space will be kept at sites where additions are planned.

Park officials have agreed to underwrite the cost of land surveys at these areas, as well as transfer fees.

The lease proposal is now being reviewed by Frank M. Hines, Dist. 54 attorney.

'Roads' Play at Teen Dance

The "Crazy Horse Roads" will play at the Streamwood Teen Club dance Friday at the Fire Hall from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Admission is 50 cents for members and $1 for nonmembers.

Adults willing to chaperone the dances are asked to contact Nancy Rauscher at 289-3923.

Before last Friday's dance, teens elected new officers. Bill Bartlett is president, Brenda Donant is vice president, Linda Hammond is secretary, Bruce Bartlett is treasurer, Terry Borden is sergeant at arms, Beth Pierotti is publicity chairman, and Becky Jakman is membership chairman.

THE NEW OFFICERS will work with corresponding officers of the adult advisory board. The advisory board meets at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Shady Oaks Fieldhouse. Any resident interested in learning more about the Teen Club is invited to attend the monthly meeting.

The teens recently held a car wash and netted $91.15 to add to the fund for construction of a teen center. Last weekend a mini rock festival was scheduled for the same purpose.

The center has a site in Streamwood. Teens from Hanover Park, Bartlett and Streamwood will use it.

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS of thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Many Americans countered the mass demonstration by displaying their support of President Nixon's policies. They flew American flags and drove automobiles with lights on.

THE FACES OF WAR showed up at the Arlington Heights train station yesterday morning. Young men, students at Northwestern University, demonstrated at the commuter stop as part of the nationwide moratorium against the Vietnam war. The local residents responded sometimes gruffly, sometimes sympathetically, but always with surprise.

Home Front Quiet

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's high school, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Roosen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday's activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendances yesterday. The three Dist. 214 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

"I think students showed maturity and respect in the way they conducted themselves during the moratorium activities," Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal, said. "I think all sides of the issue were brought out and those who wanted had a chance to express themselves."

New Fire Truck Is at Convention

Wheeling's fire department has a new fire truck and it's on display at the International Fire Chiefs' Convention in Chicago.

The truck, a pumper capable of pouring 1,250 gallons of water per minute on a fire, is larger than any of the other pumpers now owned by the department.

The truck, manufactured by Ward-LaFrance Co. in New York, will be delivered to Wheeling Oct. 24. It was brought to the Amphitheatre in Chicago for display yesterday.

The Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District will actually own the truck, but will lease it to the Wheeling Fire Department. Bernie Koeppen, Wheeling fire chief, said the truck was ordered about a year ago.

OEO To Hold Dinner

Wheeling Chapter 850 of the Order of the Eastern Star will hold a turkey dinner from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

The dinner will be held in the Masonic Hall in the Wheeling Shopping Center at the corner of Milwaukee and Dundee roads.

Donations of $2.25 for adults and $1.50 for children under 9 are asked for the dinner.

Day Like Any Other

A peaceful atmosphere prevailed at Wheeling High School yesterday on Moratorium Day. There were no demonstrations in connection with the Vietnam War moratorium and only a few examples of student expression concerning the war. No programs were held at the school in observance of the moratorium.

"Nothing out of the ordinary has taken place," reported Wheeling policeman Jack Kimsey. "There was no unusual drop in attendance or anything like that. I did see one student wearing a white armband with a peace symbol on it, but all in all, I would say it was just a normal day."

Later in the day Kimsey described the high school students' attitude as "fantastic." "Their conduct was great; it makes you really proud of Wheeling students," Kimsey said.

WHS principal Tom Shirley said he had seen "maybe a dozen" students wearing peace armbands. "But that seems to be it," he said. "There hasn't been one iota of student expression. The administration is very pleased."

The Wheeling Police Department had reported that a few WHS students passed out mimeographed leaflets several days ago urging students to dress in red, white and blue and carry flags on Moratorium Day to show opposition to the Students for a Democratic Society.

"Students for a Civilized Society (SCS)," was the name of the group identified in the leaflet as supporting this action. But apparently the SCS movement didn't get off the ground yesterday.

Park-less Mothers Register Complaint

For the growing number of homeowners in the Lake County portion of Buffalo Grove, the lack of parks in the area has become a problem with no readily apparent solution.

Mrs. Joan Sundt of 491 Springdale Lane told the Herald yesterday, "The children in our area play in the street."

She said the closest park is Emmerich. However, because the golf course lies between the north part of the village and Emmerich Park, residents from the Lake County portion must drive east to Buffalo Grove Road in order to get to the park.

MRS. SUNDT SAID that last summer, many of the children used a road along the eastern edge of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course to get to Emmerich Park. "However, they were told they couldn't use that road. As a result many of us mothers set up car pools for the rest of the summer."

The road runs north from the golf course parking lot, stopping short of Checker Road.

A spokesman for the golf course said yesterday that the road is a private one, owned by the course. "Probably a groundsman or a supervisor chased the children away," she said.

Although the road crosses no fairways, it runs parallel to one. "With the golfers out, it would be dangerous for anyone to use that road," she said.

The road is used primarily by golf course personnel, "although we see an occasional child or bicyclist using it," the spokesman said.

ASKED ABOUT the possibility of allowing children to use the road to get to Emmerich Park, the spokesman said, "In the winter when snow is on the ground and there are no golfers around, it would be safe for the children to use. But in the summer, definitely not. It's too dangerous."

Mrs. Sundt contacted Mrs. Dede Armstrong, one of the park commissioners, who said she planned to bring up the matter at the commission's next meeting.

"My feeling is that this is something best solved by a park in the Lake County portion of the village," Mrs. Sundt said.

Chief, Manager Given Two Patrol Car Bids

A pair of bids on four new patrol cars for Wheeling police were turned over to the police chief and village manager by the Wheeling Village Board Monday.

The bids, which would get the village four Chevrolet squad cars for $10,400 with trade-ins or four Dodge squad cars for $11,291 with trade-ins, will be studied by the chief and manager. They will then make a recommendation to the board.

The Dodge autos would meet all specifications set forth by the police department. The Chevrolet cars would vary in that rear window panels could not be removed.

Village Mgr. Matthew Golden also got permission from the village board to re-submit bids for an emergency generator system for the village hall because no bidders answered the last notice for bids.

Western Fast Draw Here For a Spell

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns. Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced at the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea Island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters ages 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

Lindstrom Against Sudden Pullout

by G. C. SKIPPER

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminately and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

"I am certainly in favor of the moratorium, but for entirely different reasons than most supporters," he said during an interview.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christ Liberty in Prospect Heights, said he felt this country was involved in a war which the Communist could, in the long run, win.

"WE ARE SENDING our fighting forces into this war with one hand tied behind their backs. However, I feel that a unilateral withdrawal of troops would lead to an even greater bloodbath," he said.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the U.S. involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the U.S. suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

"It is wrong for us to keep sending troops there when the very people who are giving the orders are not willing to back up the GI's with full military strength. We could have a military victory in a short period of time if we used the power at our disposal discriminately and intelligently," Lindstrom said.

HE SAID THAT as it now stands, not only are American troops fighting with two strikes against them, but some find themselves in an even worse situation — "rotting in some Vietnam prisoner of war camp."

Lindstrom said his "church family" was very much involved in Wednesday's moratorium. He spoke at Brighton College while others visited campuses in the area.

"But we were presenting our views on Vietnam and why we are against the war, which, I'm sure, differ from those of the nationwide movement," he said.

Tactics now being used by the Nixon Administration, Lindstrom noted, will simply prolong the war and thus are ineffective in stopping the loss of life.

"IF WE'RE GOING to send troops into a situation like that, at least this country should be willing to back them up with full force."

He said that tonight more activity will be undertaken by his church.

"We will be praying," he said, "that our leaders in Washington try this new tactic and thus bring about a meaningful peace. If this country would back up its troops completely, we could bring Hanoi to its knees."

Ditch Fix Ahead

Richard Decker, Buffalo Grove's village manager, predicted yesterday that corrective work "should start by the end of next week" on a drainage ditch behind Farrington Drive in the Lake County portion of the village.

Decker said he planned to meet with officials from Levitt and Sons Inc., the builder in the area, and with Harold Friedman, the area's developer, later this week.

He said that a report on the ditch by the village's engineering firm, expected to be completed shortly, would be turned over to Friedman. Decker added, "It appears the village has to do a little work itself on the ditch."

Plan Seminars In Leadership

Seminars in group leadership development for adults will begin Oct. 23 at Wheeling High School.

The seminars will be held on a week for eight weeks from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. They will be conducted by the staff of the TORCH mental health clinic, operated by the Illinois Center for Community Education Development.

"The course will use modern groupwork techniques in helping persons from all walks of life develop the skills and attitudes necessary for effective group leadership," said Donald Day, clinic director.

"MOVIES, LECTURES, closed-circuit TV and demonstrations will enable the potential group leader to see and experience the depth and satisfaction of leadership."

The program is open to all persons with no prerequisite.

Instructors for the course will be Charles Widowski and Margaret Wenzel, staff therapists at the TORCH clinic.

Maximum enrollment for the course is 20 persons.

FURTHER INFORMATION concerning the program may be obtained by calling the clinic office at 537-4969 or 537-4500.

Until recently, the TORCH mental health clinic was known as the mental health clinic. Day said the word "TORCH" was added to keep alive the name of one of the study groups that determined there was a need for the Illinois center in Wheeling.

THE LAND ON WHICH the ditch lies is part of 10 acres dedicated to the village by Levitt in connection with an annexation agreement on the last three units of its Strathmore subdivision. Levitt plans to build almost 300 homes on those three units.

At Monday's village board meeting, Village Pres. Don Thompson reported that the deed for the land had finally been turned over to the village. However, Thompson said he would refuse to file it until the situation with the ditch was corrected.

Thompson said, "the annexation of the land (Strathmore units 11, 12 and 13) is not complete until the terms of the covenant (agreement) are complete." He contended that the 10 acres of land to be turned over to the village is worth less now, because of the ditch, than it was when the agreement was made. This was the basis for his claim that the terms of the annexation agreement had not been met.

AT AN EARLIER board meeting, the trustees directed Decker to issue a citation in connection with the ditch. However, Monday Decker told the trustees he had not done so. He said later he didn't issue the citation because, "We're receiving co-operation on the ditch."

Decker apparently was referring to a meeting held Oct. 10 among himself, Thompson and officials from the builder and the developer.

The village board has tabled any consideration of Levitt's final plats for its Units 11, 12 and 13 because of the ditch.

Residents living on Farrington Drive and Springside Lane have been seeking corrective work on the ditch since last summer. They charged that the ditch is a hazard to children and a nuisance to the neighborhood.

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Many Americans countered the mass demonstration by displaying their support of President Nixon's policies. They flew American flags and drove automobiles with lights on.

THE FACES OF WAR showed up at the Arlington Heights train station yesterday morning. Young men, students at Northwestern University, demonstrated at the commuter stop as part of the nationwide moratorium against the Vietnam war. The local residents responded sometimes gruffly, sometimes sympathetically, but always with surprise.

Faces of Death Ask for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train. THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground. Another man slammed a train window down in the face of a protester shouting to him from below.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splashed with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacificist Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think about war," he said, "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dungarees between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs.

Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

"Stop the war," the students said. "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

New Fire Truck Is at Convention

Wheeling's fire department has a new fire truck and it's on display at the International Fire Chiefs' Convention in Chicago.

The truck, a pumper capable of pouring 1,250 gallons of water per minute on a fire, is larger than any of the other pumpers now owned by the department.

The Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District will actually own the truck, but will lease it to the Wheeling Fire Department. Bernie Koeppen, Wheeling fire chief, said the truck was ordered about a year ago.

Meeting Planned For Organization

An organization meeting for the Prospect Heights Plan Commission will meet next Tuesday to plan a protest to the proposed Golf-Rand expressway.

The Golf-Rand route is one of almost 15 being studied by the Lochner Consulting Co. for a six-lane expressway that will slice across the Northwest suburbs from Evanston to Palatine.

If approved, part of the Golf-Rand route which runs one-and-a-half miles east of Rand Road will divide Prospect Heights in half.

ACCORDING TO STATE highway officials, a decision should be reached on the route for the north suburban expressway this year or early next year.

The plan commission meeting will be open to all residents in Prospect Heights who are interested in working to oppose the Golf-Rand route, according to Mrs. Gerald Lavander, secretary of the commission.

At the meeting, which will be held in the MacArthur Junior High School cafeteria at 8 p.m., members will appoint officers and committees to determine policy and draw up plans of action. Anyone interested in additional information on the meeting can call Mrs. Lavander at 394-3984.

"Our time is limited and we will have to work very hard in a community effort to stop the expressway from dividing Prospect Heights," said Mrs. Lavander.

A STEERING COMMITTEE for the commission met in February under the leadership of Ralph Van Petten, past president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association. Represented at the first meeting were the womens and Lions clubs, the school, park and fire districts, the Prospect Heights Improvement Association and the library board.

At the February meeting, residents proposed several alternate routes to the Golf-Rand route. One of their suggestions was to utilize Rand Road for the expressway.

Another suggestion was to route the expressway along Palatine Road (Willow Road). This plan has also been supported by residents in Glenview, who protested the Golf-Rand route in June at a meeting sponsored by the City Committee on the North Suburban Expressway.

NO MEETINGS have been held by the commission since February because "we have been waiting to see something more definite develop," said Mrs. Lavander.

Just last week O. V. Anderson, member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, reported that the Lochner firm is now studying the possibility of combining mass transportation facilities with freeway facilities.

This could mean a rail rapid transit in the center of the expressway similar to the transit system now being constructed along the Kennedy Expressway.

OEO To Hold Dinner

Wheeling Chapter 850 of the Order of the Eastern Star will hold a turkey dinner from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

The dinner will be held in the Masonic Hall in the Wheeling Shopping Center at the corner of Milwaukee and Dundee roads.

Donations of $2.25 for adults and $1.50 for children under 9 are asked for the dinner.

The Prospect Heights Park District and School Dist. 23 will have a meeting of minds Monday night. Communication has been blocked between these two boards in the past, because they both meet on Monday nights.

The meeting Monday will be for informal discussion between the two districts in an effort to begin formulation of a working agreement.

LAST YEAR, THE park district and the school district entered into a temporary agreement whereby the park used facilities in the schools for their fall-winter program in accordance with the regular building rental policy of the school.

Basically this policy provides for a token rental charge to cover custodial service when children are using the facilities. For adult programs in the schools, a larger sum is charged.

The two districts hope to start a more permanent agreement Monday night that can be added to in the future.

Presently, the park district is in its third year and is working under a limited budget. They are not in the position to offer a great deal in reciprocal services. However, both parties would like to formulate an agreement which can be expanded as the park district becomes more financially stable.

THE SCHOOL DISTRICT has such an agreement now with the Arlington Heights Park District. The park district cuts the grass with a tractor mower, trims the bushes and maintains the ball diamond at MacArthur Junior High School in return for use of the school gymnasium. No charge is involved on either side.

According to Ronald Greenberg, park superintendent, the cost of a tractor mower, approximately $3,500, would take about 17 per cent from the district budget allotted to maintenance and facilities.

"I don't know if the board members would approve the expense," said Greenberg. "I think we might be able to afford it."

"If all of the separate entities in Prospect Heights, including our two districts and the other private associations work together, there is very little that we can't accomplish," Greenberg said.

Boards' 'Minds' To Meet

Home Front Quiet

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's high school, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Roosen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday's activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendances yesterday. The three Dist. 211 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

"I think students showed maturity and respect in the way they conducted themselves during the moratorium activities," Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal, said. "I think all sides of the issue were brought out and those who wanted had a chance to express themselves."

"NOW, LADIES, point your right foot." Gaining tips on coordination and basic fundamentals of ballet, these women are enrolled in the women's ballet class, sponsored by the Wheeling Park District. Instructor of the course is Mrs. Don Swanson, at right.

The class meets every Wednesday morning at the Heritage Park Fieldhouse in Wheeling.

Lindstrom Against Sudden Pullout

by G. C. SKIPPER

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminately and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

"I am certainly in favor of the moratorium, but for entirely different reasons than most supporters," he said during an interview.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, said he felt this country was involved in a war which the Communist could, in the long run, win.

"WE ARE SENDING our fighting forces into this war with one hand tied behind their backs. However, I feel that a unilateral withdrawal of troops would lead to an even greater bloodbath," he said.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the U.S. involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the U.S. suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

"It is wrong for us to keep sending troops there when the very people who are giving the orders are not willing to back up the GI's with full military strength. We could have a military victory in a short period of time if we used the power at our disposal discriminately and intelligently, Lindstrom said.

HE SAID THAT as it now stands, not only are American troops fighting with two strikes against them, but some find themselves in an even worse situation — "rotting in some Vietnam prisoner of war camp."

Lindstrom said his "church family" was very much involved in Wednesday's moratorium. He spoke at Brighton College while others visited campuses in the area.

"But we were presenting our views on Vietnam and why we are against the war, which, I'm sure, differ from those of the nationwide movement," he said.

Tactics now being used by the Nixon Administration, Lindstrom noted, will simply prolong the war and thus are ineffective in stopping the loss of life.

"IF WE'RE GOING to send troops into a situation like that, at least this country should be willing to back them up with full force."

He said that tonight more activity will be undertaken by his church.

"We will be praying," he said, "that our leaders in Washington try this new tactic and thus bring about a meaningful peace. If this country would back up its troops completely, we could bring Hanoi to its knees."

Ditch Fix Ahead

Richard Decker, Buffalo Grove's village manager, predicted yesterday that corrective work "should start by the end of next week" on a drainage ditch behind Farrington Drive in the Lake County portion of the village.

Decker said he planned to meet with officials from Levitt and Sons Inc., the builder in the area, and with Harold Friedman, the area's developer, later this week.

He said that a report on the ditch by the village's engineering firm, expected to be completed shortly, would be turned over to Friedman. Decker added, "It appears the village has to do a little work itself on the ditch."

Plan Seminars In Leadership

Seminars in group leadership development for adults will begin Oct. 23 at Wheeling High School.

The seminars will be held once a week for eight weeks from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. They will be conducted by the staff of the TORCH mental health clinic, operated by the Illinois Center for Community Education Development.

"The course will use modern groupwork techniques in helping persons from all walks of life develop the skills and attitudes necessary for effective group leadership," said Donald Day, clinic director.

"MOVIES, LECTURES, closed-circuit TV and demonstrations will enable the potential group leader to see and experience the depth and satisfaction of leadership."

The program is open to all persons with no prerequisite.

Instructors for the course will be Charles Widowski and Margaret Wenzel, staff therapists at the TORCH clinic. Maximum enrollment for the course is 20 persons.

FURTHER INFORMATION concerning the program may be obtained by calling the clinic office at 537-4960 or 537-6500.

Until recently, the TORCH mental health clinic was known as the mental health clinic. Day said the word "TORCH" was added to keep alive the name of one of the study groups that determined there was a need for the Illinois center in Wheeling.

THE LAND ON WHICH the ditch lies is part of 10 acres dedicated to the village by Levitt in connection with an annexation agreement on the last three units of its Strathmore subdivision. Levitt plans to build almost 300 homes on those three units.

At Monday's village board meeting, Village Pres. Don Thompson reported that the deed for the land had finally been turned over to the village. However, Thompson said he would refuse to file it until the situation with the ditch was corrected.

Thompson said, "the annexation of the land (Strathmore units 11, 12 and 13) is not complete until the terms of the covenant (agreement are complete." He contended that the 10 acres of land to be turned over to the village is worth less now, because of the ditch, than it was when the agreement was made. This was the basis for his claim that the terms of the annexation agreement had not been met.

AT AN EARLIER board meeting, the trustees directed Decker to issue a citation in connection with the ditch. However, Monday Decker told the trustees he had not done so. He said later he didn't issue the citation because, "We're receiving co-operation on the ditch."

Decker apparently was referring to a meeting held Oct. 10 among himself, Thompson and officials from the builder and the developer.

The village board has tabled any consideration of Levitt's final plans for its Units 11, 12 and 13 because of the ditch.

Residents living on Farrington Drive and Springside Lane have been seeking corrective work on the ditch since last summer. They charged that the ditch is a hazard to children and a nuisance to the neighborhood.

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday morning, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Many Americans countered the mass demonstration by displaying their support of President Nixon's policies. They flew American flags and drove automobiles with lights on.

THE FACES OF WAR showed up at the Arlington Heights train station yesterday morning. # Faces of Death Ask for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground. Another man slammed a train window down in the face of a protester shouting to him from below.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splattered with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacificist Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters.

New Fire Truck Is at Convention

Wheeling's fire department has a new fire truck and it's on display at the International Fire Chiefs' Convention in Chicago.

The truck, a pumper capable of pouring 1,250 gallons of water per minute on a fire, is larger than any of the other pumpers now owned by the department.

The truck, manufactured by Ward-LaFrance Co. in New York, will be delivered to Wheeling Oct. 24. It was brought to the Amphitheatre in Chicago for display yesterday.

The Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District will actually own the truck, but will lease it to the Wheeling Fire Department. Berne Koeppen, Wheeling fire chief, said the truck was ordered about a year ago.

OEO To Hold Dinner

Wheeling Chapter 850 of the Order of the Eastern Star will hold a turkey dinner from 1 to 6 p.m. Sunday.

The dinner will be held in the Masonic Hall in the Wheeling Shopping Center at the corner of Milwaukee and Dundee roads.

Donations of $2.25 for adults and $1.50 for children under 9 are asked for the dinner.

Day Like Any Other

A peaceful atmosphere prevailed at Wheeling High School yesterday on Moratorium Day. There were no demonstrations in connection with the Vietnam War moratorium and only a few examples of student expression concerning the war. No programs were held at the school in observance of the moratorium.

"Nothing out of the ordinary has taken place," reported Wheeling policeman Jack Kimsey. "There was no unusual drop in attendance or anything like that. I did see one student wearing a white armband with a peace symbol on it, but all in all, I would say it was just a normal day."

Later in the day Kimsey described the high school students' attitude as "fantastic." "Their conduct was great; it makes you really proud of Wheeling students," Kimsey said.

WHS principal Tom Shirley said he had seen "maybe a dozen" students wearing muters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dungarees between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs.

Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

"Stop the war," the students said.

"If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of chiches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted: "You're on private property. Get off."

peace armbands. "But that seems to be it," he said. "There hasn't been one iota of student expression. The administration is very pleased."

The Wheeling Police Department had reported that a few WHS students passed out mimeographed leaflets several days ago urging students to dress in red, white and blue and carry flags on Moratorium Day to show opposition to the Students for a Democratic Society.

"Students for a Civilized Society (SCS)," was the name of the group identified in the leaflet as supporting this action. But apparently the SCS movement didn't get off the ground yesterday.

Several Buffalo Grove policemen were on standby duty at the Wheeling police station yesterday in case of problems at the high school. However, no Moratorium Day activities developed in either town.

Home Front Quiet

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's high school, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Reesen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendances yesterday. The three Dist. 21 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

"I think students showed maturity and respect in the way they conducted themselves during the moratorium activities," Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal, said. "I think all sides of the issue were brought out and those who wanted had a chance to express themselves."

"NOW, LADIES, point your right foot." Gaining tips on coordination and basic fundamentals of ballet, these women are enrolled in the women's ballet class, sponsored by the Wheeling Park District. Instructor of the course is Mrs. Don Swanson, at right.

The class meets every Wednesday morning at the Heritage Park Fieldhouse in Wheeling.

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminately and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the U.S. involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the U.S. suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

"It is wrong for us to keep sending troops there when the very people who are giving the orders are not willing to back

Ditch Fix Ahead

Richard Decker, Buffalo Grove's village manager, predicted yesterday that corrective work "should start by the end of next week" on a drainage ditch behind Farrington Drive in the Lake County portion of the village.

Decker said he planned to meet with officials from Levitt and Sons Inc., the builder in the area, and with Harold Friedman, the area's developer, later this week.

Decker apparently was referring to a meeting held Oct. 10 among himself, Thompson and officials from the builder and the developer.

The village board has tabled any consideration of Levitt's final plats for its Units 11, 12 and 13 because of the ditch.

Residents living on Farrington Drive and Springside Lane have been seeking corrective work on the ditch since last summer. They charged that the ditch is a hazard to children and a nuisance to the neighborhood.

Western Fast Draw Here For a Spell

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

Faces of Death Ask for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splattered with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war..."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacifist Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think about war," he said, "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dungarees between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs.

Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

"Stop the war," the students said. "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted. "Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of clichés, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

Survey Nixes Night Racing

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

Results of a Jaycee-sponsored survey of Rolling Meadows residents show strong opposition to night racing at Arlington Park Race Track.

Survey questionnaires were distributed to about 75 per cent of the city's residents and returned by about 30 per cent. Of those returned, about 80 per cent indicated they opposed night racing.

Four questions on the survey concern night racing and Arlington Park Race Track. Of 885 returns, 414 people indicated they never attended the race track.

MORE THAN 800 residents have never question asking if residents favor night racing show 701 residents oppose it and 93 favor it.

The fourth question asks if residents personally encountered any difficulties with night racing. Returns show 487 residents have not had difficulties, 368 indicated difficulties and 30 had no answer.

The survey was divided into two areas, north of Kirchoff Road and south of Kirchoff Road. Feelings for or against the issue were about the same from both sides of the city. It is expected that residents north of Kirchoff would be more affected by night racing.

Percentages for attendance at the track show approximately 70 per cent of the people have never attended and approximately 66 per cent never attended during the night racing trial period.

OF THE 46 PERCENT who said they encountered difficulties with night racing, the most common complaints include noise, traffic, lights and undesirable people around homes and streets.

Presenting the survey to the city council Tuesday night, Jaycees Pres. Bill Meyer said his organization conducted the survey because actual written complaints were needed if anything was to be done about night racing.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he was sure the ordinance and judiciary committee would welcome the results of the survey, and added that it was good for the city.

Gerald Mycio, a city resident, asked what the city would do with the results and the stack of surveys given to the council.

MEYER SAID IT was his intention to meet with the people at the track before the racing commission meets in November. "I hope we can meet with Mrs. Everett and her people before the commission meets and work out our problems; then we won't have to protest," he said.

Mycio headed a group of residents who were trying to organize people to protest night racing. The local Jaycees decided to help the group and sponsored a city-wide survey concerning night racing and other issues in the city.

Jaycees and residents distributed the surveys last week and picked them up door-to-door over the weekend.

'Undecideds' Score Heavily In Local Poll

Rolling Meadows residents' attitudes on open housing and a supervised lot in the shopping center were included in a survey conducted by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees.

Asked if they were aware that the city council is studying an open housing ordinance, 563 residents said they were and 290 indicated they were not.

Resident opinion on the ordinance shows that 233 are for the ordinance, 251 are against it, and 491 are undecided.

APPROXIMATELY 65 PER cent of residents were aware of the ordinance, although 45 per cent had no opinion on the issue.

Concerning a supervised lot, 291 favored one and 403 didn't. Almost 200 residents had no answer.

The Jaycee survey results are based on a 30 per cent return. Approximately 75 per cent of residents in the city received surveys.

Jaycees collected the surveys door-to-door. President Bill Meyer said the Jaycees regretted that not all homes were contacted. He said collection was slowed down because of the weather and many people were not home when Jaycees came to pick up the surveys.

HE SAID PERSONS interested in getting their surveys to the Jaycees can mail them to the Rolling Meadows Jaycees, 2401 Cedar St.

At Tuesday night's city council meeting, Mayor Roland Meyer said additional surveys would be added to those compiled, and results would be updated.

Local Moratorium Response Is Calm

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's high school, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Roesen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday's activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendance yesterday. The three Dist. 211 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

"I think students showed maturity and respect in the way they conducted themselves during the moratorium activities," Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal, said. "I think all sides of the issue were brought out and those who wanted had a chance to express themselves."

Fast-Draw Artist Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

Sports Complex Bids Presented

Bids for the second phase of work on the planned sports complex in Rolling Meadows were presented at a Park District meeting, Monday evening.

The sports complex, to be funded by a $300,000 bond issue, will provide new recreational facilities for the area.

For site and excavation work, the Board accepted E-J Funk's bid for $48,881.

For concrete work, the Board accepted Zenan Company's bid of $85,000.

For structural steel, the Board accepted L-J Iron Works bid of $73,568.

Bids on other phases of construction will be presented at a Wednesday evening meeting.

To Name High School For Rolling Meadows

Students and staff members at Park, Ridge and Westgate schools should be able to discard coats in the classroom next week.

The heating systems in the three schools are being converted to gas heat and the contractor is well behind schedule. Bids were awarded in July and School Dist. 25 expected all work to be completed by the time school doors opened in September.

The contractor reported a 10-week delay in delivery of parts and a lack of manpower as reasons for the lag in installation. The recent cold weather prompted teachers to allow slacks and heavy clothing in the classrooms and school officials to place space heaters in the buildings.

The contractor will work overtime tomorrow to finish up the installation work and heat is expected to be turned on Monday or Tuesday.

No Suburban Apathy?

by GERRY DeZONNA

If the rally at Prospect High School proved anything yesterday, it proved the war in Vietnam doesn't really affect the students here.

Not just yet, anyway. When Mayor Robert Teichert told them the American people have a commitment and a responsibility in Vietnam, they clapped.

When Rabbi J. Gamoran told them American troops should be immediately withdrawn from Vietnam, they clapped again.

AND WHEN THE regular school day ended, they left to go to football practice, band rehearsal or work.

This was the scene at Prospect High School yesterday as nearly 1,500 students voluntarily attended a school assembly in observance of the nationwide moratorium on the war in Vietnam.

Some came wearing black armbands and peace buttons, while others carried small American flags and handmade signs urging victory in Vietnam.

But most of them came to listen to the three speakers and to see if there would be any protests, demonstrations or fist fights. It was a peaceful assembly and some people, disappointed or bored, left early.

The purpose of the rally, as the students planned it, was to protest against "suburban apathy," not to approve or disapprove of the war in Vietnam. The theme was communication on the war, and each side had its arguments.

"I DON'T APPROVE of the moratorium because it is undercutting our President, our policies and our economy. But I am participating in this moratorium today by speaking to you because you must hear both sides of the story," Teichert said.

"There's a lot of romance in the word revolution, but there is not revolution in the United States today. It's insurrection. The moratorium will not prove anything except that it is unnecessary as a means to peace and useless."

"The responsibility of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled in the streets by a vocal minority. To withdraw our troops unconditionally from Vietnam in the name of peace would be to order the annihilation and destruction of more than half of South Vietnam," he told them.

The students listened while Teichert condemned the moratorium and pledged his support to the cause in Vietnam. And they all clapped because, right or wrong, he was honest with them.

THE SAME STUDENTS clapped again when Rabbi Gamoran of Hoffman Estates told them the Vietnamese people must determine their own destiny.

"It is morally wrong for us to commit ourselves to Vietnam and to uphold the dictatorial regime in South Vietnam. We can't win the war unless we destroy all of Vietnam and obliterate its people. Then is this victory?"

They clapped again because the rabbi had been honest with them.

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain:

All's Quiet In Dist. 211

Nothing unusual happened in Palatine, Fremd and Conant high schools yesterday.

During the national Vietnam moratorium which prompted absenteeism on campuses throughout the country, attendance in Palatine-Schaumburg Dist. 211 schools tended to be higher than normal yesterday.

"Our absentee list was less yesterday than it was Tuesday," said Carl Weimer, Fremd High School principal.

Fremd and Palatine high schools had full teacher attendance yesterday.

Harvest Days Are Observed

Harvest Days in Palatine begin today, with local merchants celebrating the advent of autumn.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the fall sales promotion will continue through Saturday.

More than local businesses are expected to be involved in the festivities. Some local organizations are expected to sponsor booths of games and goodies in the shopping areas.

PALATINE'S CAMP Fire Girls will sell balloons. Cook books will be sold by the Nurses' Club. Through joint efforts of the Rotary Club and the Sing-Out Palatine group, shoppers also will be able to purchase household fire extinguishers.

There will be Indian dancing, performances from the Sing-Out Palatine group, the beat of tom-toms and other fall activities.

Tonight, a musical group will perform in the Village Bandshell in downtown Palatine from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Indian dancers will put on a show at the Palatine Plaza.

THE DANCERS can be seen again tomorrow night in the downtown area while Sing-Out Palatine puts on its show in the Plaza from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Merchants will show their participation in Harvest Days by wearing farmer hats and bandanas.

The fall sale comes in a year filled with activities sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Looking for ways to keep business in town, the chamber began its campaign with Red Tag Days in May. Then, merchants offered Palatine Appreciations Days in June and Sidewalk Days in August.

HOMEMADE APPLE PIES and bread are being baked by Immanuel Lutheran Parent Teacher League mothers for the annual beef dinner in the school cafeteria Wednesday, Oct. 22, from 5 to 7 p.m. Mrs. Charles Hendricks and 11 other mothers are baking 150 apple pies to be served with the dinner. Ten mothers are baking 120 loaves of bread. Tickets can be ordered by calling the school, 359-1936, or 358-4507.

Lindstrom Against Sudden Pullout

by G. C. SKIPPER

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminately and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

"I am certainly in favor of the moratorium, but for entirely different reasons than most supporters," he said during an interview.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, said he felt this country was involved in a war which the Communist could, in the long run, win.

"WE ARE SENDING our fighting forces into this war with one hand tied behind their backs. However, I feel that a unilateral withdrawal of troops would lead to an even greater bloodbath," he said.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the U.S. involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the U.S. suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

"It is wrong for us to keep sending troops there when the very people who are giving the orders are not willing to back up the GI's with full military strength. We could have a military victory in a short period of time if we used the power at our disposal discriminately and intelligently, Lindstrom said.

HE SAID THAT as it now stands, not only are American troops fighting with two strikes against them, but some find themselves in an even worse situation — "rotting in some Vietnam prisoner of war camp."

Lindstrom said his "church family" was very much involved in Wednesday's moratorium. He spoke at Brighton College while others visited campuses in the area.

"But we were presenting our views on Vietnam and why we are against the war, which, I'm sure, differ from those of the nationwide movement," he said.

Tactics now being used by the Nixon Administration, Lindstrom noted, will simply prolong the war and thus are ineffective in stopping the loss of life.

"IF WE'RE GOING to send troops into a situation like that, at least this country should be willing to back them up with full force."

He said that tonight more activity will be undertaken by his church.

"We will be praying," he said, "that our leaders in Washington try this new tactic and thus bring about a meaningful peace. If this country would back up its troops completely, we could bring Hanoi to its knees."

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Many Americans countered the mass demonstration by displaying their support of President Nixon's policies. They flew American flags and drove automobiles with lights on.

ARTISTS CONCEPTION OF the addition to the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center shows the expansion of Crawford's store and partially enclosed mall. Ground breaking ceremonies are scheduled for Oct. 28. The additions are scheduled to be completed in late spring, 1970.

Crawford's Plans Expansion

Crawford's department store in the Rolling Meadows shopping center will begin expansion Oct. 28.

A ground breaking ceremony is scheduled for the addition and partial mall enclosure, said John W. Baird, president of Baird and Warner, owners of the facility.

Plans call for a 22,500-square-foot expansion of the Crawford store and a heated and air conditioned mall enclosure.

Completion of the addition is scheduled for late spring, 1970. The expansion will more than double the area of the main largest tenant in the center.

The Rolling Meadows center was built on a 20-acre site in 1956. Crawford's is the in the department store.

Rolling Meadows Police Chief Cy Campbell said at a City Council meeting Tuesday night he was quitting after a salary increase proposal was tabled.

"I verbally resign as chief of police, I feel it (the tabling) is a slap in the face to myself and the lieutenant," Campbell said. The proposal was to increase the salary of police chief and lieutenant.

Alderman Stephen Eberhard recommended calling a special meeting to review the salaries of all city employees and consider the police matter at that time.

A MOTION TO table the proposal precipitated Campbell's statement of resignation.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he didn't feel this was a slap in the face, and the city council has a responsibility to the entire city. "I would not take this as a vote of no confidence," he said.

Meyer said the salary increases even though decided on at a later date would be retroactive to Oct. 14. A special, closed meeting was called for tomorrow night to discuss salary and personnel.

Campbell said only two people were not included in the fiscal year budget, the lieutenant and the police chief. The patrolmen and sergeants are on a higher level, and the salaries of the lieutenant and police chief should be brought up, he said.

Meyer said the council was asking for a total employee report to include all employees who should get raises. "We're not saying that you and the lieutenant don't need raises." When the raises are decided upon they will be retroactive, he said.

THE COUNCIL AS a whole is trying to see why there is a proposed raise, and on what basis, Meyer said. "I think we should come in with a cost of living raise," he said.

Campbell said salary increases were put into the budget, but the increase was not put into effect. "All raises should have been put in at this time, since last May we should have been receiving higher pay. There's a deficiency in only two, the chief and lieutenant," he said.

Alderman Thomas Scanlan said those budget figures didn't add up correctly, and he told former city manager Gary Machunze to work the budget again.

Scanlan said the uncorrected budget was brought to the City Council. Meyer said the figures were not correct and the amounts were more than what was appropriated.

SCANLAN SAID he hoped Campbell would withdraw his resignation and said he was very disappointed in his colleagues. He said the aldermen were not evaluating the positions and that he was sure the increases would be approved.

Campbell was unavailable for comment yesterday. Meyer said the whole incident was unfortunate, and it should have been studied more.

"Temper got a little hot, and if he puts his resignation in writing, I'm not going to act until he comes back from vacation," Meyer said.

"He's been working too hard, and he needs a vacation. We've told him to take one. I'm going to ask him to take his vacation, he's too valuable for us to lose," Meyer said.

MEYER SAID THE city passes its budget earlier than other towns, and after other towns raise salaries, the city is behind. He said other towns should be raising salaries to meet Rolling Meadows, "so other towns will catch up with us."

The meeting was no place to debate the matter, Meyer said. "Campbell had a point and the council had a point, but any raises would be retroactive so there wouldn't be any difference," he said.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

Stewardship Sunday

Stewardship Sunday will be Sunday at Bethel Lutheran Church of Palatine. Using the theme, "Christianity in Particular," laymen will address the congregation at the 9:30 and 10:45 a.m. services.

The Bethel stewardship committee has been working since August on the day-long program to promote stewardship in the parish. A stewardship dinner will begin at 5 p.m., followed by a special congregational meeting at 6:25 p.m. and the special stewardship program at 6:35 p.m.

The Rev. L. A. Kampfe, the church's new senior pastor, will ask the group to pledge time, talent, and treasure to increase the church's services.

Survey Nixes Night Racing

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

Results of a Jaycee-sponsored survey of Rolling Meadows residents show strong opposition to night racing at Arlington Park Race Track.

Survey questionnaires were distributed to about 75 per cent of the city's residents and returned by about 30 per cent. Of those returned, about 80 per cent indicated they opposed night racing.

Four questions on the survey concern night racing and Arlington Park Race Track. Of 885 returns, 614 people indicated they never attended the race track.

MORE THAN 800 residents have never attended night racing. Returns on the question asking if residents favor night racing show 701 residents oppose it and 93 favor it.

The fourth question asks if residents personally encountered any difficulties with night racing. Returns show 487 residents have not had difficulties, 368 indicated difficulties and 30 had no answer.

The survey was divided into two areas, north of Kirchoff Road and south of Kirchoff Road. Feelings for or against the issue were about the same from both sides of the city. It is expected that residents north of Kirchoff would be more affected by night racing.

Percentages for attendance at the track show approximately 70 per cent of the people have never attended and approximately 95 per cent never attended during the night racing trial period.

OF THE 46 PERCENT who said they encountered difficulties with night racing, the most common complaints include noise, traffic, lights and undesirable people around homes and streets.

Presenting the survey to the city council Tuesday night, Jaycees Pres. Bill Meyer said his organization conducted the survey because actual written complaints were needed if anything was to be done about night racing.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he was sure the ordinance and judiciary committee would welcome the results of the survey, and added that it was good for the city.

Gerald Mycio, a city resident, asked what the city would do with the results and the stack of surveys given to the council.

MEYER SAID IT was his intention to meet with the people at the track before the racing commission meets in November. "I hope we can meet with Mrs. Everett and her people before the commission meets and work out our problems; then we won't have to protest," he said.

Mycio headed a group of residents who were trying to organize people to protest night racing. The local Jaycees decided to help the group and sponsored a city-wide survey concerning night racing and other issues in the city.

Jaycees and residents distributed the surveys last week and picked them up door-to-door over the weekend.

City's New Trucks Are Hungry

Like hungry monsters, Rolling Meadows' new garbage trucks chew up anything that can fit into the trucks' units.

A movie of the truck in operation was shown at the Rolling Meadows City Council meeting Tuesday night.

The trucks are scheduled to go into operation Dec. 1, barring any unforeseen circumstances, said Mayor Roland Meyer. The city has an agreement with Barrington Trucking Co. to terminate its contract a month early.

THE MOVIE showed the truck loaded with television sets, chairs, furniture, branches, tables and tricycles to illustrate what kind of material the truck can handle.

James McFeggan, superintendent of public works, said the trucks have been used in Germany for 40 years. He said the bag system has been used there for 18 years.

In the United States the truck is relatively new, and has only been used for a couple of years, he said.

The city will have three trucks, and each will have a three-man crew. Meyer said there are agreements with three landfills to handle the city's scavenger collection.

MEYER SAID that in about five or six years the trucks will be in widespread use in this country. Maintenance costs of these trucks are about one-seventh of those for conventional trucks, he said.

The city decided to go to its own scavenger system last month. Research done by the public works department indicated that the city could provide the service for less cost than that of a private scavenger.

Collection system in use in Rolling Meadows is the paper bag system. The city went to this method on a city-wide basis May 1.

Local Moratorium Response Is Calm

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Hedt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's High School, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Roesen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday's activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendances yesterday. The three Dist. 211 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

"I think students showed maturity and respect in the way they conducted themselves during the moratorium activities," Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal, said. "I think all sides of the issue were brought out and those who wanted had a chance to express themselves."

Fast-Draw Artist Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns. Dressed as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea Island scene.

In the future Pletan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pletan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pletan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Muscramma Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pletan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

Sports Complex Bids Presented

Bids for the second phase of work on the planned sports complex in Rolling Meadows were presented at a Park District meeting, Monday evening.

The sports complex, to be funded by a $900,000 bond issue, will provide new recreational facilities for the area.

For site and excavation work, the Board accepted R-J Funk's bid for $48,891.

For concrete work, the Board accepted Zeman Company's bid of $95,000.

For structural steel, the Board accepted L-J Iron Works bid of $73,568.

Bids on other phases of construction will be presented at a Wednesday evening meeting.

No Suburban Apathy?

by GERRY DEZONNA

If the rally at Prospect High School proved anything yesterday, it proved the war in Vietnam doesn't really affect the students here.

Not just yet, anyway.

When Mayor Robert Teichert told them the American people have a commitment and a responsibility in Vietnam, they clapped.

When Rabbi J. Gamoran told them American troops should be immediately withdrawn from Vietnam, they clapped again.

AND WHEN THE regular school day ended, they left to go to football practice, band rehearsal or work.

This was the scene at Prospect High School yesterday as nearly 1,500 students voluntarily attended a school assembly in observance of the nationwide moratorium on the war in Vietnam.

Some came wearing black armbands and peace buttons, while others carried small American flags and handmade signs urging victory in Vietnam.

But most of them came to listen to the three speakers and to see if there would be any protests, demonstrations or fist fights. It was a peaceful assembly and some people, disappointed or bored, left early.

The purpose of the rally, as the students planned it, was to protest against "suburban apathy," not to approve or disapprove of the war in Vietnam. The theme was communication on the war, and each side had its arguments.

"I DON'T APPROVE of the moratorium because it is undercutting our President, our policies and our economy. But I am participating in this moratorium today by speaking to you because you must hear both sides of the story," Teichert said.

"There's a lot of romance in the word revolution, but there is no revolution in the United States today. It's insurrection. The moratorium will not prove anything except that it is unnecessary as a means to peace and useless.

"The responsibility of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled in the streets by a vocal minority. To withdraw our troops unconditionally from Vietnam in the name of peace would be to order the annihilation and destruction of more than half of South Vietnam," he told them.

The students listened while Teichert condemned the moratorium and pledged his support to the cause in Vietnam. And they all clapped because, right or wrong, he was honest with them.

THE SAME STUDENTS clapped again when Rabbi Gamoran of Hoffman Estates told them the Vietnamese people must determine their own destiny.

"It is morally wrong for us to commit ourselves to Vietnam and to uphold the dictatorial regime in South Vietnam. We can't win the war unless we destroy all of Vietnam and obliterate its people. Then is this victory?"

They clapped again because the rabbi had been honest with them.

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain.

The war in Vietnam is puzzling, controversial and happening more than halfway around the world from Prospect High School.

"THE RESPONSIBILITY of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled on the streets by a vocal minority," said Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect yesterday, as he addressed students at a rally in observance of Vietnam War moratorium at Prospect High School. Teichert told students the moratorium is immoral and wrong.

All's Quiet In Dist. 211

Nothing unusual happened in Palatine, Fremd and Conant high schools yesterday.

During the national Vietnam moratorium which prompted absenteeism on campuses throughout the country, attendance in Palatine-Schaumburg Dist. 211 schools tended to be higher than normal yesterday.

"Our absentee list was less yesterday than it was Tuesday," said Carl Weimer, Fremd High School principal.

Fremd and Palatine high schools had full teacher attendance yesterday.

"I think students did an exceptionally fine job in conducting school today," said Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal.

"They showed dignity, respect and pride in the things they did and should be commended for it."

Harvest Days Are Observed

Harvest Days in Palatine begin today, with local merchants celebrating the advent of autumn.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the fall sales promotion will continue through Saturday.

More than local businesses are expected to be involved in the festivities. Some local organizations are expected to sponsor booths of games and goodies in the shopping areas.

PALATINE'S CAMP Fire Girls will sell balloons. Cook books will be sold by the Nurses' Club. Through joint efforts of the Rotary Club and the Sing-Out Palatine group, shoppers also will be able to purchase household fire extinguishers.

There will be Indian dancing, performances from the Sing-Out Palatine group, the beat of tom-toms and other fall activities.

Tonight, a musical group will perform in the Village Bandshell in downtown Palatine from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Indian dancers will put on a show at the Palatine Plaza.

THE DANCERS can be seen again tomorrow night in the downtown area while Sing-Out Palatine puts on its show in the Plaza from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Merchants will show their participation in Harvest Days by wearing farmer hats and bandanas.

The fall sale comes in a year filled with activities sponsored by the local Chamber of Commerce.

Looking for ways to keep business in town, the chamber began its campaign with Red Tag Days in May. Then, merchants offered Palatine Appreciations Days in June and Sidewalk Days in August.

HOMEMADE APPLE PIES and bread are being baked by Immanuel Lutheran Parent Teacher League mothers for the annual beef dinner in the school cafeteria Wednesday, Oct. 22, from 5 to 7 p.m. Mrs. Charles Hendricks and 11 other mothers are baking 150 apple pies to be served with the dinner. Ten mothers are baking 120 loaves of bread. Tickets can be ordered by calling the school, 359-1936, or 358-4507.

Lindstrom Against Sudden Pullout

by G. C. SKIPPER

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminate and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

"I am certainly in favor of the moratorium, but for entirely different reasons than most supporters," he said during an interview.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, said he felt this country was involved in a war which the Communist could, in the long run, win.

"WE ARE SENDING our fighting forces into this war with one hand tied behind their backs. However, I feel that a unilateral withdrawal of troops would lead to an even greater bloodbath," he said.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the US involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the US suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

Lindstrom said his "church family" was very much involved in Wednesday's moratorium. He spoke at Brighton College while others visited campuses in the area.

"But we were presenting our views on Vietnam and why we are against the war, which, I'm sure, differ from those of the nationwide movement," he said.

Tactics now being used by the Nixon Administration, Lindstrom noted, will simply prolong the war and thus are ineffective in stopping the loss of life.

"IF WE'RE GOING to send troops into a situation like that, at least this country should be willing to back them up with full force."

He said that tonight more activity will be undertaken by his church.

"We will be praying," he said, "that our leaders in Washington try this new tactic and thus bring about a meaningful peace. If this country would back up its troops completely, we could bring Hanoi to its knees."

Kimball Hill School To Present Cartoons

Elementary children at Kimball Hill School will be able to attend movies Oct. 24, Dist. 15 Teachers' Institute Day.

Sponsored by the Kimball Hill PTA, an animated cartoon, "The Man From Button Willow," will be shown at 9:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in the school gym.

Children must wear gym shoes and snacks will not be permitted in the gym. All school-age children are invited to attend. Admission is 25 cents.

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Many Americans countered the mass demonstration by displaying their support of President Nixon's policies. They flew American flags and drove automobiles with lights on.

Planner Limits Drawn

The authority vested in the Mount Prospect Planning Commission in conjunction with cases of off-site parking facilities was clarified somewhat during last night's meeting.

Question arose during the Oct. 7 meeting of the village board as to whether the commission, primarily a "recommending" body, had final authority to accept written guarantees that certain off-site parking facilities will continue to be maintained at all times during the life of a proposed use or building.

UNTIL TWO WEEKS AGO the planning commission never was faced with a case involving off-premise parking. Model Makers Inc., which submitted plans for off-site parking facilities Oct. 1, was the first such case.

In a prepared statement drawn up by Village Atty. John Zimmerman, the authority of the commission with regard to the village off-site parking ordinance was ruled to be recommendatory only.

According to Zimmerman's statement, the planning commission may hold public hearings on requests for amendments to the ordinance and make findings and recommendations and forward these to the village board. It also may direct and review from time to time a study of the provisions of the ordinance and make reports of the findings to the board "not less frequently than annually."

In other action: taken by the planning commission; a plan submitted by Salvatore DiMucci for the Golf-Busse Subdivision was referred to the village attorney to certify that it conformed with the necessary concentricity set down in the municipal code.

Faces of Death Plea for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m., a few of them donned white death masks splashed with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

"THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted 'You damn Copperheads' to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant."

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacificist Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think about war," he said. "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dingbats between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs.

Parade To Open Homecoming

A parade, bonfire and pep assembly tonight will kick off the traditional homecoming festivities at Prospect High School.

The parade, which is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. at Emerson Park, will wind its way along village streets to Prospect High School where Mayor Robert Teichert will speak at the pep rally at 8 p.m.

This is the first year in the history of the school's homecoming celebrations that the parade will be in the evening. "Usually we have the parade on Friday afternoon following the coronation, but it's always been unsuccessful because there were never enough crowds," Howard Sandlund, director of student activities explained.

So, this year we're holding the parade

Thursday evening in order to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see it. We realize it might get a little dark before the parade is finished, but we want to try it anyway," he said.

The coronation of Prospect's homecoming queen is slated for 2:25 p.m. tomorrow in the fieldhouse. Students will vote tomorrow morning for one of five candidates on the homecoming court. The five queen candidates are seniors Marty Frans, Sue Bates, Sally Yoder, Pam Konstant and Pam Hall.

The homecoming football game will match the Prospect Knights against the Arlington Cardinals at 8 p.m., and the dance Saturday night will highlight the weekend festivities.

"Stop the war," the students said. "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

Meeting Planned For Organization

An organization meeting for the Prospect Heights Plan Commission will meet next Tuesday to plan a protest to the proposed Golf-Rand expressway.

The Golf-Rand route is one of almost 15 being studied by the Lochner Consulting Co. for a six-lane expressway that will slice across the Northwest suburbs from Evanston to Palatine.

If approved, part of the Golf-Rand route which runs one-and-a-half miles east of Rand Road will divide Prospect Heights in half.

ACCORDING TO STATE highway officials, a decision should be reached on the route for the north suburban expressway this year or early next year.

The plan commission meeting will be open to all residents in Prospect Heights who are interested in working to oppose the Golf-Rand route, according to Mrs. Gerald Lavander, secretary of the commission.

At the meeting, which will be held in the MacArthur Junior High School cafeteria at 8 p.m., members will appoint officers and committees to determine policy and draw up plans of action. Anyone interested in additional information on the meeting can call Mrs. Lavander at 394-3884.

"Our time is limited and we will have to work very hard in a community effort to stop the expressway from dividing Prospect Heights," said Mrs. Lavander.

A STEERING COMMITTEE for the commission met in February under the leadership of Ralph Van Pelt, past president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association. Represented at the first meeting were the women and Lions clubs, the school, park and fire districts, the Prospect Heights Improvement Association and the library board.

At the February meeting, residents proposed several alternate routes to the Golf-Rand route. One of their suggestions was to utilize Rand Road for the expressway.

Another suggestion was to route the expressway along Palatine Road (Willow Road). This plan has also been supported by residents in Glenview, who protested the Golf-Rand route in June at a meeting sponsored by the City Committee on the North Suburban Expressway.

NO MEETINGS have been held by the commission since February because "we have been waiting to see something more definite develop," said Mrs. Lavander.

Just last week O. V. Anderson, member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, reported that the Lochner firm is now studying the possibility of combining mass transportation facilities with freeway facilities.

This could mean a rail rapid transit in the center of the expressway similar to the transit system now being constructed along the Kennedy Expressway.

Night Racing Nixed

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

Results of a Jaycee-sponsored survey of Rolling Meadows residents show strong opposition to night racing at Arlington Park Race Track.

Survey questionnaires were distributed to about 75 per cent of the city's residents and returned by about 30 per cent. Of those returned, about 80 per cent indicated they opposed night racing.

Four questions on the survey concern night racing and Arlington Park Race Track. Of 885 returns, 614 people indicated they never attended the race track.

MORE THAN 800 residents have never attended night racing. Returns on the question asking if residents favor night racing show 701 residents oppose it and 93 favor it.

The fourth question asks if residents personally encountered any difficulties with night racing. Returns show 487 residents have not had difficulties, 368 indicated difficulties and 30 had no answer.

The survey was divided into two areas, north of Kirchoff Road and south of Kirchoff Road. Feelings for or against the issue were about the same from both sides of the city. It is expected that residents north of Kirchoff would be more affected by night racing.

Percentages for attendance at the track show approximately 70 per cent of the people have never attended and approximately 95 per cent never attended during the night racing trial period.

OF THE 46 PERCENT who said they encountered difficulties with night racing, the most common complaints include noise, traffic, lights and undesirable people around homes and streets.

Presenting the survey to the city council Tuesday night, Jaycees Pres. Bill Meyer said his organization conducted the survey because actual written complaints were needed if anything was to be done about night racing.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he was sure the ordinance and judiciary committee would welcome the results of the survey, and added that it was good for the city.

Gerald Mycio, a city resident, asked what the city would do with the results and the stack of surveys given to the council.

MEYER SAID IT was his intention to meet with the people at the track before the racing commission meets in November. "I hope we can meet with Mrs. Everett and her people before the commission meets and work out our problems; then we won't have to protest," he said.

Mycio headed a group of residents who were trying to organize people to protest night racing. The local Jaycees decided to help the group and sponsored a city-wide survey concerning night racing and other issues in the city.

Jaycees and residents distributed the surveys last week and picked them up door-to-door over the weekend.

by G. C. SKIPPER

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminately and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

"I am certainly in favor of the moratorium, but for entirely different reasons than most supporters," he said during an interview.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, said he felt this country was involved in a war which the Communist could, in the long run, win.

"WE ARE SENDING our fighting forces into this war with one hand tied behind their backs. However, I feel that a unilateral withdrawal of troops would lead to an even greater bloodbath," he said.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the U.S. involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the U.S. suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

"It is wrong for us to keep sending troops there when the very people who are giving the orders are not willing to back up the GI's with full military strength. We could have a military victory in a short period of time if we used the power at our disposal discriminately and intelligently," Lindstrom said.

HE SAID THAT as it now stands, not only are American troops fighting with two strikes against them, but some find themselves in an even worse situation — "rotting in some Vietnam prisoner of war camp."

Lindstrom said his "church family" was very much involved in Wednesday's moratorium. He spoke at Brighton College while others visited campuses in the area.

"But we were presenting our views on Vietnam and why we are against the war, which, I'm sure, differ from those of the nationwide movement," he said.

Tactics now being used by the Nixon Administration, Lindstrom noted, will simply prolong the war and thus are ineffective in stopping the loss of life.

"IF WE'RE GOING to send troops into a situation like that, at least this country should be willing to back them up with full force."

He said that tonight more activity will be undertaken by his church.

"We will be praying," he said, "that our leaders in Washington try this new tactic and thus bring about a meaningful peace. If this country would back up its troops completely, we could bring Hanoi to its knees."

Fast-Draw Artist Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pletan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Billed as "the world's fastest artist," the 50-year-old Pletan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pletan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PLETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pletan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PLETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a hall room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

U. N. Program Set

Forest View Elementary School in Mount Prospect will sponsor a United Nations program beginning at 1:15 p.m. in the school next Thursday and Friday.

The program will consist of a series of skits representative of various countries in the United Nations. The program is open to the public. The school is located at 1901 States Drive.

Tapes Are Prime Targets

Burglars operating in the same general vicinity in Mount Prospect stole three stereo tape decks, 64 tapes and one car radio sometime Tuesday night.

Total value of the loot was estimated at $555.

Bruce Jiebo of 314 N. Pine St., reported that his car was broken into and $150 worth of tapes and stereo equipment was stolen.

Ed Schaffer reported that a tape deck and 20 tapes valued at $175 were stolen from his car parked in front of his home at 405 N. Emerson.

A TOTAL OF $200 worth of stereo equipment was heisted from a car owned by Don Lehnert sometime Tuesday while it was parked at his 409 N. Willie St. residence.

Mrs. George Anderson of 412 N. Emerson reported that her car radio, valued at $67, was stolen.

A. J. Gallagher, 312 Longacres, Palatine, had five stereo tapes valued at $30 stolen while his car was parked at the Rand Road Cinema. The thieves also attempted to remove his steering wheel, he reported.

Marc Tillinghast, 418 N. Emerson, reported to Mount Prospect police that someone smashed the vent window and stole a pair of prescription sun glasses. The auto was parked in his driveway. Estimated damage was $37.

HARPER JUNIOR COLLEGE held an all-day forum as their part in the nationwide Vietnam Moratorium. Speaking for the war is Dr. Philip Bennett of

Rev. Paul Lindstrom's Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights. The program was in the college's lounge area. (See story on page 7.)

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Area Response Is Calm

"THE RESPONSIBILITY of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled on the streets by a vocal minority," said Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect yesterday, as he addressed students at a rally in observance of Vietnam War moratorium at Prospect High School. Teichert told students the moratorium is immoral and wrong.

No Suburban Apathy?

by GERRY DeZONNA

If the rally at Prospect High School proved anything yesterday, it proved the war in Vietnam doesn't really affect the students here.

Not just yet, anyway. When Mayor Robert Teichert told them the American people have a commitment and a responsibility in Vietnam, they clapped.

When Rabbi J. Gamoran told them American troops should be immediately withdrawn from Vietnam, they clapped again.

AND WHEN THE regular school day ended, they left to go to football practice, band rehearsal or work.

This was the scene at Prospect High School yesterday as nearly 1,500 students voluntarily attended a school assembly in observance of the nationwide moratorium on the war in Vietnam.

Some came wearing black armbands and peace buttons, while others carried small American flags and handmade signs urging victory in Vietnam.

But most of them came to listen to the three speakers and to see if there would be any protests, demonstrations or fist fights. It was a peaceful assembly and some people, disappointed or bored, left early.

The purpose of the rally, as the students planned it, was to protest against "suburban apathy," not to approve or disapprove of the war in Vietnam. The theme was communication on the war, and each side had its arguments.

"I DON'T APPROVE of the moratorium because it is undercutting our President, our policies and our economy. But I am participating in this moratorium today by speaking to you because you must hear both sides of the story," Teichert said.

"There's a lot of romance in the word revolution, but there is not revolution in the United States today. It's insurrection. The moratorium will not prove anything except that it is unnecessary as a means to peace and useless."

"The responsibility of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled in the streets by a vocal minority. To withdraw our troops unconditionally from Vietnam in the name of peace would be to order the annihilation and destruction of more than half of South Vietnam," he told them.

The students listened while Teichert condemned the moratorium and pledged his support to the cause in Vietnam. And they all clapped because, right or wrong, he was honest with them.

THE SAME STUDENTS clapped again when Rabbi Gamoran of Hoffman Estates told them the Vietnamese people must determine their own destiny.

"It is morally wrong for us to commit ourselves to Vietnam and to uphold the dictatorial regime in South Vietnam. We can't win the war unless we destroy all of Vietnam and obliterate its people. Then is this victory?"

They clapped again because the rabbi had been honest with them.

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain:

The war in Vietnam is puzzling, controversial and happening more than halfway around the world from Prospect High School.

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

Attendance in the high schools remained normal. In Lake Park and Fenton High Schools in DuPage County, where no school-sponsored activities were held, absenteeism increased by about 50 students.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence, in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's High School, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Roesen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday's activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendances yesterday. The three Dist. 211 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

"I think students showed maturity and respect in the way they conducted themselves during the moratorium activities," Carl Zdeb, Conant High School principal, said. "I think all sides of the issue were brought out and those who wanted had a chance to express themselves."

Planner Limits Drawn

The authority vested in the Mount Prospect Planning Commission in conjunction with cases of off-site parking facilities was clarified somewhat during last night's meeting.

Question arose during the Oct. 7 meeting of the village board as to whether the commission, primarily a "recommending" body, had final authority to accept written guarantees that certain off-site parking facilities will continue to be maintained at all times during the life of a proposed use or building.

UNTIL TWO WEEKS AGO the planning commission never was faced with a case involving off-premise parking. Model Makers Inc., Inc., which submitted plans for off-site parking facilities Oct. 1, was the first such case.

In a prepared statement drawn up by Village Atty. John Zimmerman, the authority of the commission with regard to the village off-site parking ordinance was ruled to be recommendatory only.

According to Zimmerman's statement, the planning commission may hold public hearings on requests for amendments to the ordinance and make findings and recommendations and forward these to the village board. It also may direct and review from time to time a study of the provisions of the ordinance and make reports of the findings to the board "not less frequently than annually."

In other action taken by the planning commission, a plan submitted by Salvatore DiMucci for the Golf-Busse Subdivision was referred to the village attorney to certify that it conformed with the necessary concentration set down in the municipal code.

Faces of Death Plea for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splashed with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war..."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad: One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacificist Gordon Patterson, one of the students.

"We are trying to get people to think about war," he said, "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dungarees between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs. Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

A parade, bonfire and pep assembly tonight will kick off the traditional homecoming festivities at Prospect High School.

The parade, which is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. at Emerson Park, will wind its way along village streets to Prospect High School where Mayor Robert Teichert will speak at the pep rally at 8 p.m.

This is the first year in the history of the school's homecoming celebrations that the parade will be in the evening. "Usually we have the parade on Friday afternoon following the coronation, but it's always been unsuccessful because there were never enough crowds," Howard Sandlund, director of student activities explained.

"So, this year we're holding the parade

Thursday evening in order to give everyone in the community an opportunity to see it. We realize it might get a little dark before the parade is finished, but we want to try it anyway," he said.

The coronation of Prospect's homecoming queen is slated for 2:25 p.m. tomorrow in the fieldhouse. Students will vote tomorrow morning for one of five candidates on the homecoming court. The five queen candidates are seniors Marty Frans, Sue Bates, Sally Yoder, Pam Konstant and Pam Hall.

The homecoming football game will match the Prospect Knights against the Arlington Cardinals at 8 p.m., and the dance Saturday night will highlight the weekend festivities.

"Stop the war," the students said "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off!"

Meeting Planned For Organization

An organization meeting for the Prospect Heights Plan Commission will meet next Tuesday to plan a protest to the proposed Golf-Rand expressway.

The Golf-Rand route is one of almost 15 being studied by the Lochner Consulting Co. for a six-lane expressway that will slice across the Northwest suburbs from Evanston to Palatine.

If approved, part of the Golf-Rand route which runs one-and-a-half miles east of Rand Road will divide Prospect Heights in half.

ACCORDING TO STATE highway officials, a decision should be reached on the route for the north suburban expressway this year or early next year.

The plan commission meeting will be open to all residents in Prospect Heights who are interested in working to oppose the Golf-Rand route, according to Mrs. Gerald Lavander, secretary of the commission.

At the meeting, which will be held in the MacArthur Junior High School cafeteria at 8 p.m., members will appoint officers and committees to determine policy and draw up plans of action. Anyone interested in additional information on the meeting can call Mrs. Lavander at 394-3084.

"Our time is limited and we will have to work very hard in a community effort to stop the expressway from dividing Prospect Heights," said Mrs. Lavander.

A STEERING COMMITTEE for the commission met in February under the leadership of Ralph Van Petten, past president of the Prospect Heights Improvement Association. Represented at the first meeting were the women's and Lions clubs, the school, park and fire districts, the Prospect Heights Improvement Association and the library board.

At the February meeting, residents proposed several alternate routes to the Golf-Rand route. One of their suggestions was to utilize Rand Road for the expressway.

Another suggestion was to route the expressway along Palatine Road (Willow Road). This plan has also been supported by residents in Glenview, who protested the Golf-Rand route in June at a meeting sponsored by the City Committee on the North Suburban Expressway.

NO MEETINGS have been held by the commission since February because "we have been waiting to see something more definite develop," said Mrs. Lavander.

Just last week O. V. Anderson, member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, reported that the Lochner firm is now studying the possibility of combining mass transportation facilities with freeway facilities.

This could mean a rail rapid transit in the center of the expressway similar to the transit system now being constructed along the Kennedy Expressway.

Night Racing Nixed

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

Results of a Jaycee-sponsored survey of Rolling Meadows residents show strong opposition to night racing at Arlington Park Race Track.

Survey questionnaires were distributed to about 75 per cent of the city's residents and returned by about 30 per cent. Of those returned, about 90 per cent indicated they opposed night racing.

Four questions on the survey concern night racing and Arlington Park Race Track. Of 885 returns, 614 people indicated they never attended the race track.

MORE THAN 800 residents have never attended night racing. Returns on the question asking if residents favor night racing show 701 residents oppose it and 93 favor it.

The fourth question asks if residents personally encountered any difficulties with night racing. Returns show 487 residents have not had difficulties, 368 indicated difficulties and 30 had no answer.

The survey was divided into two areas, north of Kirchoff Road and south of Kirchoff Road. Feelings for or against the issue were about the same from both sides of the city. It is expected that residents north of Kirchoff would be more affected by night racing.

Percentages for attendance at the track show approximately 70 per cent of the people have never attended and approximately 95 per cent never attended during the night racing trial period.

OF THE 44 PERCENT who said they encountered difficulties with night racing, the most common complaints include noise, traffic, lights and undesirable people around homes and streets.

Presenting the survey to the city council Tuesday night, Jaycees Pres. Bill Meyer said his organization conducted the survey because actual written complaints were needed if anything was to be done about night racing.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he was sure the ordinance and judiciary committee would welcome the results of the survey, and added that it was good for the city.

Gerald Mycio, a city resident, asked what the city would do with the results and the stack of surveys given to the council.

MEYER SAID IT was his intention to meet with the people at the track before the racing commission meets in November. "I hope we can meet with Mrs. Everett and her people before the commission meets and work out our problems; then we won't have to protest," he said.

Mycio headed a group of residents who were trying to organize people to protest night racing. The local Jaycees decided to help the group and sponsored a city-wide survey concerning night racing and other issues in the city.

Jaycees and residents distributed the surveys last week and picked them up door-to-door over the weekend.

Lindstrom Against Sudden Pullout

by G. C. SKIPPER

The United States should try an entirely new tactic in the Vietnam War — win the conflict by "discriminately and intelligently" using the military power at its disposal to "bring Hanoi to its knees."

This is the view of Rev. Paul Lindstrom who summed up for the Herald last night his reaction to Wednesday's nationwide moratorium.

"I am certainly in favor of the moratorium, but for entirely different reasons than most supporters," he said during an interview.

Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, said he felt this country was involved in a war which the Communist could, in the long run, win.

"WE ARE SENDING our fighting forces into this war with one hand tied behind their backs. However, I feel that a unilateral withdrawal of troops would lead to an even greater bloodbath," he said.

Lindstrom said he was opposed to the U.S. involvement, "because I am against killing people."

If the U.S. suddenly withdrew, he pointed out, the act would lead to the slaughter of a great many more people, namely the South Vietnamese.

"It is wrong for us to keep sending troops there when the very people who are giving the orders are not willing to back up the GI's with full military strength. We could have a military victory in a short period of time if we used the power at our disposal discriminately and intelligently, Lindstrom said.

HE SAID THAT as it now stands, not only are American troops fighting with two strikes against them, but some find themselves in an even worse situation — "rotting in some Vietnam prisoner of war camp."

Lindstrom said his "church family" was very much involved in Wednesday's moratorium. He spoke at Brighton College while others visited campuses in the area.

"But we were presenting our views on Vietnam and why we are against the war, which, I'm sure, differ from those of the nationwide movement," he said.

Tactics now being used by the Nixon Administration, Lindstrom noted, will simply prolong the war and thus are ineffective in stopping the loss of life.

"IF WE'RE GOING to send troops into a situation like that, at least this country should be willing to back them up with full force."

He said that tonight more activity will be undertaken by his church.

"We will be praying," he said, "that our leaders in Washington try this new tactic and thus bring about a meaningful peace. If this country would back up its troops completely, we could bring Hanoi to its knees."

Fast-Draw Artist Here

by DON BRANNAN

Burnette Pietan is a quick draw artist who uses a brush instead of six-guns.

Called as "the world's fastest artist," the 59-year-old Pietan can complete an oil painting in as little as 30 minutes. Most of his paintings are natural scenes and include both summer and winter scenes.

A resident of Hill City, S.D., Pietan spends about five months each year selling his paintings to tourists in the Black Hills. During the remainder of the year, he travels throughout the country to paint and sell his works, which come in all sizes.

PIETAN, WHO TRAVELS and paints in a 40-foot trailer truck, is in Hoffman Estates with his traveling workshop and plans to stay in the area until Christmas. His truck is based at a gas station at the intersection of Golf and Higgins roads.

Pietan has been doing paintings for 37 years. During that time, he has completed an estimated 55,000 paintings. His works can be found in every state in the United States and 28 foreign countries.

"I can do seven or 8 paintings a day when I work at it steady," said the artist. Prices of his works range from $25 to $150, depending on their size. For instance, a large painting four by eight feet was priced in the $150 range.

PIETAN HAS ALSO done murals in churches and restaurants around the country. On Monday, for example, he did a painting of the River Jordan at a church in Elgin. His largest painting is over 150 feet long. The latter work is displayed in a ball room in Strasburg, N.D. It is a South Sea island scene.

In the future Pietan is planning to do a large mural of the Apollo 11 crew's moon landing in Houston, Tex., for a customer. The mural will be 60 feet long.

A MAN OF VARIED talents, Pietan is also a magician, entertainer, ventriloquist, and a private pilot.

Tomorrow night Pietan will do a demonstration in oil painting and entertain at a FUNARAMA youth program in Hillcrest School, Hoffman Estates, at 7 p.m.

FUNARAMA is a youth program sponsored by Musicrama Evangelistic Association, headed by Evangelist Jim Berndt of Hoffman Estates. The program is for youngsters age 8 to 12.

Pietan estimates there are 500 of his paintings in Chicagoland homes, and hopes there will be more in the next few months.

U. N. Program Set

Forest View Elementary School in Mount Prospect will sponsor a United Nations program beginning at 1:15 p.m. in the school next Thursday and Friday.

The program will consist of a series of skits representative of various countries in the United Nations. The program is open to the public. The school is located at 1901 States Drive.

Tapes Are Prime Targets

Burglars operating in the same general vicinity in Mount Prospect stole three stereo tape decks, 64 tapes and one car radio sometime Tuesday night.

Total value of the loot was estimated at $555.

Bruce Jiebo of 314 N. Pine St., reported that his car was broken into and $150 worth of tapes and stereo equipment was stolen.

Ed Schaffer reported that a tape deck and 20 tapes valued at $175 were stolen from his car parked in front of his home at 405 N. Emerson.

A TOTAL OF $200 worth of stereo equipment was heisted from a car owned by Don Lehnert sometime Tuesday while it was parked at his 409 N. Willie St. residence.

Mrs. George Anderson of 412 N. Emerson reported that her car radio, valued at $67, was stolen.

A. J. Gallager, 312 Longacres, Palatine, had five stereo tapes valued at $30 stolen while his car was parked at the Rand Road Cinema. The thieves also attempted to remove his steering wheel, he reported.

Marc Tillinghast, 418 N. Emerson, reported to Mount Prospect police that someone smashed the vent window and stole a pair of prescription sun glasses. The auto was parked in his driveway. Estimated damage was $37.

HARPER JUNIOR COLLEGE held an all-day forum as their part in the nationwide Vietnam Moratorium. Speaking for the war is Dr. Philip Bennett of

Rev. Paul Lindstrom's Christian Liberty Academy in Prospect Heights. The program was in the college's lounge area. (See story on page 7.)

Nationwide Response Is Largest Protest

HUNDREDS OF thousands of Americans poured out their unhappiness over the Vietnam War yesterday, Moratorium Day, in the largest protest yet mounted in this country against U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

The protest also had the most prestigious support, including nearly 80 Senators and Congressmen.

In Saigon the U.S. commander in Vietnam Gen. Creighton W. Abrams said anti-war demonstrations in the United States would have no effect on the war effort. A handful of troops wore black armbands as a sign of support for Moratorium.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee in Washington which organized the day reported tremendous response from all over the country.

Many Americans countered the mass demonstration by displaying their support of President Nixon's policies. They flew American flags and drove automobiles with lights on.

Discussion, forums and debates were the general response in the Northwest suburbs yesterday to the call for a nationwide suspension of normal business activity, called the Vietnam War Moratorium.

Most of the suburban activity centered in the high schools, where classes were not suspended, but students were allowed to discuss the issues and controversy surrounding the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

At Harper Junior College in Palatine, the area's only college, about 500 students gathered in a student lounge to hear speakers, including 13th Congressional District Democratic candidate Edward Warman, in a day-long forum. Security was maintained at entrances to the college to prevent disruption of the scheduled activities.

EARLY MORNING COMMUTERS leaving the Arlington Heights depot were met by 10 Northwestern University students wearing white death masks who were trying to get the suburbanites to think about the war and react to it.

In Palatine last night, the village's anti-war group, PACEM (Palatine Area Citizens for Enlightened Majorities), held a candlelight march and rally in Community Park in support of the moratorium.

A planned moratorium protest at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights drew only one person, Mrs. Lynne Heidt, who came to watch the protest.

The students, who were to be the backbone of the moratorium protest, remained in school where they were allowed to conduct classroom discussions with teachers or the Vietnam War.

SACRED HEART OF Mary High School in Rolling Meadows had twice as many absent students yesterday over Tuesday's attendance.

Throughout the day teachers and outside lecturers discussed law and conscience, human relations and the psychology of violence in seminars which students could attend in lieu of classes. About half the students attended class and half were at the special lectures.

Some students obtained names of American men in Vietnam with whom they plan to correspond.

At St. Viator's high school, Arlington Heights, a panel of faculty and students discussed Vietnam in a first period school assembly.

Prospect Heights and Forest View high schools were the only Dist. 214 schools which held special assemblies with outside speakers.

At Prospect Heights, students left the assembly when school ended, although the three scheduled speakers had not finished.

Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert, reflecting on the moratorium's effectiveness in the high schools, said, "In general, there has been little impact. All day it has been school as usual. As of 2 p.m. there has been no report of disruptive activities."

AN EFFORT BY several residents of the district to seek an injunction to bar classroom and assembly discussions of the war in Dist. 214 fell short. Jack Roosen, a citizen who spoke against the moratorium at a school board meeting, was unable to obtain an injunction barring yesterday's activities.

Palatine, Fremd, and Conant high schools tended to have better-than-average attendances yesterday. The three Dist. 211 schools had planned classroom discussions.

At Fremd students and teachers met in an after-school forum-panel to discuss the issues of the war in Vietnam. Students at Conant High School had the option of attending discussion during study halls. Tapes of "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation" broadcasts were available for students to view.

Faces of Death Ask for Life

by JAMES VESELY

The war in Vietnam met the Arlington Heights commuter crowd yesterday morning, and by all indications, the commuters won.

As downtown businessmen and shoppers met their trains early yesterday morning, they in turn were met by a contingent of some 10 Northwestern University students trying to arouse public indignation over the war.

The students were part of the nationwide moratorium against the war, but to most of the commuters, they were just another obstacle to a seat on the train.

THE WAR PROTESTERS received some favorable responses from a few commuters but the anger came hard and fast from most of the men at the station.

Confronted by a bearded student passing out anti-war material, one man angrily pushed the leaflets to the ground.

The students seemed undaunted. About 7 a.m. a few of them donned white death masks splashed with red paint and walked through the crowds chanting "Stop the war, stop the war..."

Other students pretended they were commuters. They stood on the platform with clear plastic face masks, reading newspapers and arguing with the protesters.

THIS REALLY got a few of the real commuters mad. One man shouted "You damn Copperheads" to the students but they didn't seem to know what he meant.

Any response from the commuters, either in anger or sympathy, was welcomed by the demonstrators, according to Pacifist Gordon Patterson, one of the students. "We are trying to get people to think about war," he said, "and if they get angry at us that's all right. As long as they begin to think about war."

Patterson's crew was persistent in its attempts to get reactions from the commuters. The students would walk with a man down the train platform, telling him about the war, asking questions, getting rebuffed, sometimes getting insulted.

A few of the commuters stopped for a minute to talk earnestly to the young men. Most, however, seemed embarrassed by the confrontation.

AS EACH NEW batch of commuters arrived, the demonstrators tried to arouse their interest. Two or three of them would walk the platform, white masks on their faces, carrying a pair of dungarees between them. They chanted their slogans and the commuters responded with theirs.

Just before the 8 a.m. train arrived, two students got into a verbal slugging match with a clump of commuters on the opposite platform.

"Stop the war," the students said. "If you don't like this country, get out," a commuter responded.

"STOP THE KILLING," the student shouted.

"Go back to school," the commuter yelled.

Several of the men in the crowd waiting for the train began to get angry. "What do you do for a living?" they asked the students. "You people are just naive, how do you know what's going on in Vietnam?"

The two groups shouted at each other across the track. It was a battle of cliches, each side accusing the other of ignorance, each side defending its own brand of patriotism.

Suddenly, like a curtain, the train came between the two groups. The commuters got on their train and the students lined the track, arms up, two fingers spread in the peace sign.

As the train pulled out of the station, a conductor hung out the door. He poked his thumb over his shoulder and shouted, "You're on private property. Get off."

New Culture Unit Off and Rolling

The ball has really started rolling for the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission.

Commissioners discussed information they had found, the appointment of standing committees and guest speakers at their meeting last night.

Chairman, Bud Beacham and Comr. John O'Neil visited the assistant director of the Illinois Art Council. They reported that the council's activities include many areas that may be helpful to the local commission.

"A LOT OF THE work that we anticipated would be done by a staff assistant has already been done and all we have to do is tap it," Beacham said.

O'Neil reported that he learned from the council that a manual is available listing foundations which donate funds to cultural activities.

The commission established standing committees, including public relations, finance, research and real estate. Three commission members were appointed to each committee, and Beacham requested each group meet before the next commission meeting in November.

COMMISSION MEMBERS decided to try to locate guest speakers who are experts on culture and cultural centers to speak at their regular meetings.

A portion of the meeting would be set aside for a presentation and then questions by the commissioners.

"The speakers should be appropriate to the stage of development that we are in," Robert Hawley said.

Hawley stressed that speakers in the near future should have very general knowledge about the problems of trying to establish a cultural center.

by SANDRA BROWNING

Paul Pavey is a funny man.

The Arlington Heights apartment dweller has to have a sense of humor, judging from the way he reacted to a letter he received from William Mack, village sanitarian.

Mack's letter was dated Oct. 3 and read "Numerous complaints have been received from tenants in your apartment complex, regarding your dog defecating on the grass areas, and also on the basement floors. As you must be aware, an unsanitary condition prevails due to this excretion."

The sanitarian's letter also "ordered" Pavey to "avail yourself of a Super Dooper-Pooper Scooper sold in many garden shops, to effect a hygienic removal of this substance."

PAVEY, WHO LIVES at 4 E. Lillian Lane, could have gotten mad, flown off the handle and stormed village hall. However, he chose to reply to Mack's order with a four-page letter of satire and wit. Pavey mailed copies of it to Mack, the village president, village board members and the Herald.

You see, Pavey's dog, Lady, died in September at the age of 15.

Pavey stated that since he knew Mack would take quick action on any complaint, Lady could not have been at fault since she was dead. He also said the dog was never in the basement.

Suggesting that Mack test the "excretion" in the basement, Pavey wrote, "Our dog was well-trained, but I'm not so sure about some of the other tenants."

Theorizing that Mack's letter must have been a joke, the village resident said no public official could be so stupid as to order someone to buy a particular brand of item, the Super Dooper Pooper Scooper.

THE FOUL ODORS IN the basement could come from a pipe that was leaking a liquid that smelled like raw sewage, according to Pavey.

While he was at it, the apartment dweller decided to outline a few problems with his building, including a few wrecked automobiles being stored in the parking lot, garbage being strewn about the premises and litter and trash in the halls.

"I could go on and on for pages telling you why we refer to this place as the ghetto of Arlington Heights. Why a beautiful village allows it, I can't understand."

THE NEXT TIME things are dull at village hall... why don't you take this letter to some of the other departments to see if they might like to help make Arlington Heights a better place to live? I'm for stamping out ghetto-type dwellings in this beautiful city.

"Public officials with a sense of humor are hard to find, and I think you deserve all the recognition you can get. Keep your sense of humor. It's much needed today in government at all levels."

THE REV. PAUL Lindstrom, pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty in Prospect Heights, speaks out against Dist. 21 school sex education programs. See story on Page 6.

"THE RESPONSIBILITY of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled on the streets by a vocal minority," said Mayor Robert Teichert of Mount Prospect yesterday, as he addressed students at a rally in observance of Vietnam War moratorium at Prospect High School. Teichert told students the moratorium is immoral and wrong.

No Suburban Apathy?

by GERRY DEZONNA
If the rally at Prospect High School proved anything yesterday, it proved the war in Vietnam doesn't really affect the students here.

Not just yet, anyway. When Mayor Robert Teichert told them the American people have a commitment and a responsibility in Vietnam, they clapped.

When Rabbi J. Gamoran told them American troops should be immediately withdrawn from Vietnam, they clapped again.

AND WHEN THE regular school day ended, they left to go to football practice, band rehearsal or work.

This was the scene at Prospect High School yesterday as nearly 1,500 students voluntarily attended a school assembly in observance of the nationwide moratorium on the war in Vietnam.

Some came wearing black armbands and peace buttons, while others carried small American flags and handmade signs urging victory in Vietnam.

But most of them came to listen to the three speakers and to see if there would be any protests, demonstrations or fist fights. It was a peaceful assembly and, some people, disappointed or bored, left early.

The purpose of the rally, as the students planned it, was to protest against "suburban apathy," not to approve or disapprove of the war in Vietnam. The theme was communication on the war, and each side had its arguments.

"I DON'T APPROVE of the moratorium because it is undercutting our President, our policies and our economy. But I am participating in this moratorium today by speaking to you because you must hear both sides of the story," Teichert said.

"There's a lot of romance in the word revolution, but there is not revolution in the United States today. It's insurrection. The moratorium will not prove anything except that it is unnecessary as a means to peace and useless.

"The responsibility of our national commitments and goals cannot be settled in the streets by a vocal minority. To withdraw our troops unconditionally from Vietnam in the name of peace would be to order the annihilation and destruction of more than half of South Vietnam," he told them.

The students listened while Teichert condemned the moratorium and pledged his support to the cause in Vietnam. And they all clapped because, right or wrong, he was honest with them.

THE SAME STUDENTS clapped again when Rabbi Gamoran of Hoffman Estates told them the Vietnamese people must determine their own destiny.

"It is morally wrong for us to commit ourselves to Vietnam and to uphold the dictatorial regime in South Vietnam. We can't win the war unless we destroy all of Vietnam and obliterate its people. Then is this victory?"

They clapped again because the rabbi had been honest with them.

They had listened to both sides of the argument and they left knowing only one thing for certain:

The war in Vietnam is puzzling, controversial and happening more than halfway around the world from Prospect High

Basin Taken Out

Arlington Heights Park District Atty. Charles Bobinette had done his homework for the park board meeting Tuesday night, and the board decided to give him some more.

Bobinette told the board that the grading of Hickory Meadows Retention Basin would have to be done under a special contract. Originally, the board had hoped to tack the project onto the agreement with the contractor who is presently working on park sites in the village.

Board members thought the contractor would be able to give the district the best price, since he was working in the area and could do the work more quickly. Now the district will have to advertise for bids and let a separate contract.

PARK DIRECTOR Thomas Thornton said the letting of a new contract would definitely delay the grading work until next spring. However, ice skating will still be available at the site this winter even though the grading will not be done, Thornton said.

After his report on legal matters, the attorney was directed to prepare ordinances for the annexation of several parcels of land by the park district.

"There's a lot of assessed valuation in these areas and we have to move fast," Thornton said.

The areas include land which has been annexed by the village, but not by the park district.

WHILE DISCUSSING annexations, board members directed Bobinette to contact the village attorney to make arrangements to ensure the park district is notified of annexations made by the village. The district wants to keep its boundaries approximately the same as the village's.

The park attorney received more instructions before the night was over. Board members want Bobinette to work out an agreement with the village on the dedication of land along McDonald Creek. Property along the creek from Hintz Road to Schoenbeck Road is a part of the park district's master plan.

The land would preserve the natural flood plain of McDonald Creek and allow the construction of a bicycle path which, in connection with other land, could provide an extensive course for cyclists in the northern part of the village.

Survey Nixes Racing at Night

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

Results of a Jaycee-sponsored survey of Rolling Meadows residents show strong opposition to night racing at Arlington Park Race Track.

Survey questionnaires were distributed to about 75 per cent of the city's residents and returned by about 30 per cent. Of those returned, about 80 per cent indicated they opposed night racing.

Four questions on the survey concern night racing and Arlington Park Race Track. Of 885 returns, 614 people indicated they never attended the race track.

MORE THAN 800 residents have never attended night racing. Returns on the question asking if residents favor night racing show 701 residents oppose it and 93 favor it.

The fourth question asks if residents personally encountered any difficulties with night racing. Returns show 497 residents have not had difficulties, 368 indicated difficulties and 30 had no answer.

The survey was divided into two areas, north of Kirchoff Road and south of Kirchoff Road. Feelings for or against the issue were about the same from both sides of the city. It is expected that residents north of Kirchoff would be more affected by night racing.

Percentages for attendance at the track show approximately 70 per cent of the people have never attended and approximately 95 per cent never attended during the night racing trial period.

OF THE 46 PERCENT who said they encountered difficulties with night racing, the most common complaints include noise, traffic, lights and undesirable people around homes and streets.

Presenting the survey to the city council Tuesday night, Jaycees Pres. Bill Meyer said his organization conducted the survey because actual written complaints were needed if anything was to be done about night racing.

Mayor Roland Meyer said he was sure the ordinance and judiciary committee would welcome the results of the survey, and added that it was good for the city.

Gerald Mycio, a city resident, asked what the city would do with the results and the stack of surveys given to the council.

MEYER SAID IT was his intention to meet with the people at the track before the racing commission meets in November. "I hope we can meet with Mrs. Everett and her people before the commission meets and work out our problems; then we won't have to protest," he said.

Mycio headed a group of residents who were trying to organize people to protest night racing. The local Jaycees decided to help the group and sponsored a city-wide survey concerning night racing and other issues in the city.

Jaycees and residents distributed the surveys last week and picked them up door-to-door over the weekend.

Library May Get Police

Residents visiting the Arlington Heights Memorial Library during the next few weeks may see two uniformed policemen on duty in the evenings.

If the firm supplying the library's closed-circuit television (CCTV) sets agrees to an additional rental period on the equipment, and if an additional police guard is available, the library will conduct an experiment on the comparative effectiveness and desirability of human monitors and CCTV.

Trustee Richard Frisbie, who terms the TV sets "an electronic toy most singularly inappropriate for a public library," charges that the cameras and monitors represent a gradual unfolding of predictions in George Orwell's "1984."

EXECUTIVE LIBRARIAN Harold Ard reported that one police guard will be necessary this year if the TV equipment is purchased for permanent installation, but that two men might be mandatory if the equipment is not used in the future.

The equipment has been used in the library for the last three months on a trial basis.

Some board members questioned whether the TV sets presented any more of a gestapo image than uniformed, armed policemen in the building. Others said that if CCTV is used at all, the library, as a public facility, is a proper place for it.

Board members will assist Ard in the analysis of the two methods and will come to the library some evenings to see which method most easily keeps unruly students in line. Frisbie maintains that a man is needed to see that those who misbehave and disturb other patrons leave the building. "The TV sets can't climb down from the wall and do this," he said.

DURING THE NEXT few weeks there will be two men on duty part of the time and the CCTV will be turned off. For the remainder of the period, one policeman will patrol the building and the CCTV sets will be in operation.

The library has already invested $1,200 in lease payments for the equipment, which will be deducted from the $4,900 purchase price if the CCTV is permanently installed. The reasoning which prompted the three-month trial period included a savings of continuing monitor's salaries for work which the equipment could perform.

Those favoring the CCTV hold that librarians are not paid to chase children around the building and that annual salaries for two policemen would in time exceed the purchase price of CCTV. A final decision should be made in November.

Plans Unit Views Drainage

Drainage was the major point of concern at last night's Arlington Heights Plan Commission hearing.

The plan commission heard the petition of Raymond Keyes, consulting engineer for the Arnold Development Corporation who plans to develop a Korvette shopping center on the northwest corner of Arlington Heights and Rand roads.

Keyes told the commission, "We want to go forward and start construction after the planned development is approved."

But approval for the 30-acre planned development will not occur until the storm sewer question is settled.

KEYES SAID THERE would be a three-foot deep retention basin on the property for excess water. The water in the basin would run through a pipe into a culvert that would travel under Arlington Heights Road and into an existing ditch on the other side.

Commissioners James Loudon and Mrs. Alice Harms didn't like the idea of using existing village facilities and the matter wasn't settled. Loudon said, "we'll be creating a monster in our own garage with this drainage."

"The storm water will flow right into the Pine Gate subdivision."

The sanitary sewer proves another problem. Keyes said that he had asked permission to connect with the Ivy Hill sewer and had been told no. He added that the village engineers had told him that a connection with Ivy Hill would be possible.

Keyes said, "Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson suggested that we extend the sanitary sewer north on Arlington Heights Road to Hintz Road to an interceptor on a rebate arrangement. Korvette accepts this idea."

Planning engineer John Best told Keyes that the village would require that sidewalks be installed on Rand and Arlington Heights Roads.

Library Gets Extra Money

Arlington Heights Memorial Library trustees authorized executive librarian Harold Ard to spend up to $75,000 in surplus construction funds for library materials at Tuesday's meeting of the board.

In 1966 Arlington Heights voters approved the sale of $1,425,000 in bonds for construction of the new library and necessary equipment. Faced with an excess of $150,000 in building funds and a shortage of reading materials, trustees decided to allot part of the funds to help fill library bookshelves.

ARD SAID SOME of the funds will be used for a microfilm collection of the Chicago Tribune from 1940 to date and the remainder will be used to supplement the library's general book collection.

Ard also placed a 65-page order for materials in August when a bond sale to the Bank and Trust Co. of Arlington Heights was completed. The $145,000 bond sale represented the first four issues of the $500,000 in bonds authorized by residents last May for new book acquisitions.

After the referendum, interest rates climbed beyond the 5 per cent stated on the ballot and the remainder of the bonds have been difficult to sell. While recent legislation raised the library maximum to 6 per cent, the bond market is now above that level and trustees have made no decision on whether to hold another referendum on interest rates.
